

Content clauses and reported speech

RODNEY HUDDLESTON

- 1 Subordinate clauses 949
- 2 Clause type 951
- 3 Subordinators in content clauses 951
 - 3.1 Conditions under which that must or may appear 952
 - 3.2 The syntactic category of subordinator 954
- 4 Functions of declarative content clauses 956
 - 4.1 Subject 957
 - 4.2 Internal complement in clause structure 958
 - 4.3 Content clauses in construction with it 960
 - 4.3.1 It as subject 960
 - 4.3.2 The complex-transitive construction 963
 - 4.3.3 Other constructions 963
 - 4.4 Complement of an adjective 964
 - 4.5 Complement of a noun or supplement 964
 - 4.6 Content clauses licensed by so, such, and (in AmE) enough, sufficient(ly) 967
 - 4.7 Adjunct in clause structure 969
 - 4.8 Complement of a preposition or adverb 971
- 5 Interrogative content clauses 972
 - 5.1 Form 972
 - 5.2 Whether vs if 973
 - 5.3 Survey of constructions containing subordinate interrogatives 975
 - 5.3.1 As complement or supplement 977
 - 5.3.2 Question-orientation vs answer-orientation 981
 - 5.3.3 Dubitatives 983
 - 5.3.4 On the construction He made I don't know how many mistakes 984
 - 5.3.5 Infinitival interrogatives 985
 - 5.3.6 Interrogatives as adjunct: the un-governed exhaustive conditional construction 985
- 6 Exclamative content clauses 991
 - 6.1 Exclamatives in relation to open interrogatives 991
 - 6.2 Distribution of exclamative content clauses 992
- 7 Mood, tense, and factivity 993
 - 7.1 The subjunctive construction and specialised uses of modal auxiliaries 993
 - 7.1.1 The mandative construction 995
 - 7.1.2 Content clauses governed by prepositions 1000
 - 7.1.3 Content clauses functioning as exhaustive conditional adjunct 1001
 - 7.1.4 Other specialised modal constructions 1001

- 7.2 Modal preterites and irrealis mood 1002
- 7.3 Present tense with future time interpretation 1004
- 7.4 Factivity 1004
- 8 Some issues of syntactic analysis 1011
 - 8.1 Subordinators and the traditional category of ‘subordinating conjunctions’ 1011
 - 8.2 Content clauses in relation to the traditional classification of subordinate clauses 1014
 - 8.3 Content clauses and the function ‘object’ 1017
- 9 Reported speech 1023
 - 9.1 Indirect reported speech 1024
 - 9.2 Direct reported speech 1026
 - 9.3 Free indirect and direct speech 1029