

Nouns and noun phrases

JOHN PAYNE

RODNEY HUDDLESTON

- 1 Distinctive properties of nouns and NPs 326
- 2 Overview of noun classes and NP structure 328
- 3 Number and countability 333
 - 3.1 Count and non-count nouns 334
 - 3.2 Singular and plural nouns 340
 - 3.2.1 Plural-only nouns with the -s ending 340
 - 3.2.2 Other plural-only nouns 345
 - 3.2.3 Singular nouns with the -s ending 345
 - 3.2.4 Variation between singular and plural construals 348
 - 3.3 Non-count quantificational nouns 349
 - 3.4 Number agreement and selection within the NP 352
- 4 The determiner function 354
- 5 Quantification 358
 - 5.1 Existential quantification, universal quantification, and negation 358
 - 5.2 Scalar entailments and implicatures 363
- 6 The articles and the category of definiteness 368
 - 6.1 The definite article the 368
 - 6.2 The indefinite article a 371
- 7 Other determinatives 373
 - 7.1 The demonstrative determinatives this and that 373
 - 7.2 The personal determinatives we_a and you_a 374
 - 7.3 The universal determinatives all and both 374
 - 7.4 The distributive determinatives each and every 378
 - 7.5 The existential determinatives some and any 380
 - 7.6 Cardinal numerals 385
 - 7.7 The disjunctive determinatives either and neither 387
 - 7.8 The negative determinatives no and none 389
 - 7.9 The alternative-additive determinative another 391
 - 7.10 The positive paucal determinatives a little, a few, several. etc. 391
 - 7.11 The degree determinatives many, much, few, little 393
 - 7.12 The sufficiency determinatives enough, sufficient 396
 - 7.13 The interrogative determinatives which, what, whichever, whatever 397
 - 7.14 The relative determinatives which, what, whichever, whatever 398

- 8 Referential and non-referential uses of NPs 399
 - 8.1 Reference and denotation 399
 - 8.2 The contrast between referential and non-referential NPs 400
 - 8.3 Some special cases of non-referential NPs 402
 - 8.4 Restricted non-referential uses of the articles 407
 - 8.5 Restricted non-referential interpretations of bare NPs 409
- 9 Fused-head and elliptical NPs 410
 - 9.1 Overview of the fused-head construction 410
 - 9.2 Fusion of determiner and head 412
 - 9.3 Fusion of internal modifier and head 415
 - 9.4 Fusion of predeterminer and head 418
 - 9.5 The fused-head analysis compared with alternatives 419
 - 9.6 Compound determinatives 423
 - 9.7 Ellipsis of postmodifiers 424
- 10 Pronouns 425
 - 10.1 Subcategories of pronoun 425
 - 10.1.1 Personal pronouns 425
 - 10.1.2 Reciprocal pronouns 428
 - 10.1.3 Interrogative and relative pronouns 428
 - 10.1.4 Deictic temporal pronouns 429
 - 10.2 The structure of NPs with pronouns as head 429
- 11 Determinative Phrases 431
- 12 Predeterminer modifiers 433
- 13 Peripheral modifiers 436
- 14 Internal dependents 439
 - 14.1 Complements 439
 - 14.2 Modifiers 444
 - 14.3 Appositive modifiers 447
 - 14.4 Composite nominals vs compound nouns 448
- 15 Order of elements in NP structure 452
- 16 Case 455
 - 16.1 Preliminaries 455
 - 16.2 Nominative and accusative 458
 - 16.2.1 Non-coordinate personal pronouns/determinatives 458
 - 16.2.2 Coordinative constructions 462
 - 16.2.3 Who and whom 464
 - 16.3 Six types of genitive construction 467
 - 16.4 Genitive pronouns 470
 - 16.5 Subject-determiner genitives 472
 - 16.5.1 Combination of determiner and subject functions 472
 - 16.5.2 Semantic comparison with the subject in clause structure 473
 - 16.5.3 Alternating patterns of complementation 475
 - 16.6 Head and phrasal genitives 479
 - 16.7 The adjective own in construction with genitives 482

- 17 Gender and pronoun – antecedent agreement 484
 - 17.1 Gender as a grammatical category 484
 - 17.2 Agreement: personal pronouns and antecedents 486
 - 17.2.1 Nature of the agreement relation 486
 - 17.2.2 Masculine, feminine, and neuter 488
 - 17.2.3 Common noun gender classes 489
 - 17.2.4 Singular pronouns denoting humans without specification of sex 491
 - 17.2.5 Person and number 495
 - 17.3 Agreement between relative pronouns and their antecedents 497
- 18 Subject–verb agreement 499
 - 18.1 Simple agreement 499
 - 18.2 Semantically motivated overrides 501
 - 18.3 Further overrides and alternations 504
 - 18.4 Coordination within the subject 507
- 19 Number in predicatives and their predicands 510
 - 19.1 The semantic nature of matching number 510
 - 19.2 Distributive and non-distributive predicatives in non-quantificational constructions 513
 - 19.3 Distributive interpretations in quantified constructions 515
- 20 Proper names, proper nouns, and vocatives 515
 - 20.1 The distinction between proper names and proper nouns 515
 - 20.2 The form of proper names 516
 - 20.2.1 Strong and weak proper names 517
 - 20.2.2 Proper names with simple and composite heads 518
 - 20.3 Embellishments 519
 - 20.4 Secondary uses of proper names 520
 - 20.5 NPs in vocative function 522