Destroy and Build
Pacification in Phuoc Thuy, 1966-1972
Thomas Richardson

In this new work, Thomas Richardson explores the 1st Australian Task Force’s (1ATF) implementation of pacification in Phuoc Tuy between 1966 and 1972. He argues that pacification, and Australian military history at large, remains a subject discussed only in the context of its impact on the Australian force rather than on its own merits.

Captive Anzacs
Australian Prisoners of War of the Ottomans during the First World War
Kate Ariotti

Captive Anzacs explores the experiences of the 198 Australians who became prisoners of the Ottomans during the First World War. Kate Ariotti intertwines rich detail from letters, diaries and other personal papers with official records to provide a comprehensive, nuanced account of this aspect of Australian war history.

Soldiers and Gentlemen
Australian Battalion Commanders in the Great War, 1914-1918
William Westerman

In his ground-breaking book, William Westerman explores the stories of the vitally important, yet often forgotten, commanding officers of the First World War. Theirs is a story of the timeless challenges of military leadership, and this book prevents them from slipping from the public memory to enhance our knowledge of the conflict.
Guarding the Periphery
The Australian Army in Papua New Guinea, 1951-75
Tristan Moss

In Guarding the Periphery: The Australian Army in Papua New Guinea, 1951-75, Tristan Moss explores the operational, social and racial aspects of this unique force during the height of the colonial era in PNG and during the progression to independence.

---

Pozières
Echoes of a Distant Battle
Christopher Wray

This book explores the impact the battle of Pozières has had on Australian society and history, and how it is remembered today. It is generously illustrated with photographs, maps and paintings, and is essential reading for anyone interested in the First World War and Australia’s post-war society.

---

Britannia’s Shield
Lieutenant-General Sir Edward Hutton and Late-Victorian Imperial Defence
Craig Stockings

From British colonial conflicts in Africa and Egypt to the turn-of-the-century war on the South African veldt and its complicated aftermath, Craig Stockings presents a vivid portrayal of imperial land defence prior to 1914 through a biographical study of Lieutenant-General Sir Edward Hutton.
The Search for Tactical Success in Vietnam
An Analysis of Australian Task Force Combat Operations
Andrew Ross, Robert Hall and Amy Griffin

Thoroughly researched and engagingly written, this book provides a unique study of the tactics and achievements of the First Australian Task Force in Phuoc Tuy Province, South Vietnam. Further, original maps throughout the text illustrate how the Task Force's tactics were employed.

The Proud 6th
An Illustrated History of the 6th Australian Division 1939-1946
Mark Johnston

This book is the first history published on the 6th Australian Division. Through photographs and an authoritative text, this book tells the story of the commanders of the 6th Division and of the proud, independent and tough troops they commanded.

Australian Battalion Commanders in the Second World War
Garth Pratten

Australian Battalion Commanders in the Second World War explores, for the first time, the background, role and conduct of the commanding officers of Australian infantry battalions in World War II, who, despite their vital role as the lynchpins of the battlefield, have previously received scant attention in contemporary military history.
To Salamaua
Phillip Bradley

The Architect of Victory
The Military Career of Lieutenant General Sir Frank Horton Berryman
Peter J. Dean

Despite his reputedly caustic personality and his noted fallouts with senior officials, Lieutenant General Sir Frank Berryman was critical to Australia’s success during World War II. Peter Dean charts Berryman’s special relationships with senior US and Australian officers and explains why the man poised to become the next Chief of General Staff would never fulfil his ambition.

The Battle for Wau
New Guinea’s Frontline 1942–1943
Phillip Bradley

Bradley describes the early WWII conflicts in New Guinea, from the Japanese landing at Salamaua in 1942 to the defeat at Wau in 1943. Drawing on recollections from over seventy veterans and first-hand knowledge of the region, all aspects are brought together in one readable volume.
Anzac and Empire
George Foster Pearce and the Foundations of Australian Defence
John Connor

Anzac and Empire is the first full-length biography of George Foster Pearce – a carpenter who became one Australia’s most influential politicians, and the man central to how Australia planned for, and fought in, World War I.

The Kokoda Campaign 1942
Myth and Reality
Peter Williams

The Kokoda Campaign of 1942 has taken on mythical status in Australian military history. Using extensive research and Japanese sources, Peter Williams seeks to dispel the myth. Unlike most other books written from an Australian perspective, the book focuses on the strategies, tactics and battle plans of the Japanese.

The Hard Slog
 Australians in the Bougainville Campaign, 1944-45
Karl James

This book is the first major study since 1963 of the historic Australian military campaign of 1944-1945 on the island of Bougainville in the South Pacific. Drawing on archival resources, Karl James argues that this often-overlooked part of military history played an important part in Australia’s Second World War victory.
To Win the Battle
The 1st Australian Division in the Great War
1914-1918
Robert Stevenson

To Win the Battle tells the story of how the 1st Australian Division became one of the great fighting formations of WWI. This important study provides a fresh approach and a balanced assessment of the factors that led to the division’s success and the birth of the Anzac legend.

Anzacs in the Middle East
Australian Soldiers, their Allies and the Local People in World War II
Mark Johnston

Anzacs in the Middle East is a compelling exploration of the experiences of soldiers who fought in the Middle East during World War II. The book examines the relationships between Australians and their allies and also how they related to the local people: Greeks, Egyptians, Syrians, Lebanese and Palestinians.

A Soldier’s Soldier
A Biography of Lieutenant General Sir Thomas Daly
Jeffrey Grey

Lieutenant General Sir Thomas Daly was one of the most influential figures in Australia’s military history. As Chief of the General Staff during the Vietnam War, he oversaw a significant re-organisation of the Army. The book examines Daly’s career and covers key issues in the development of the Australian Army.
Stretcher-bearers
Saving Australians from Gallipoli to Kokoda
Mark Johnston

Stretcher-bearers is a compelling account of the experience of Australian stretcher-bearers during the First and Second World Wars. The book features over 130 full-page photographs and draws on accounts by stretcher-bearers who worked on the front line, as well as tributes from rescued soldiers.

Light Horse
A History of Australia’s Mounted Arm
Jean Bou

This book is a comprehensive history of the Australian Light Horse in war and peace. It examines the place of the Light Horse in Australia’s military history throughout its existence, from its antecedents in the middle of the nineteenth century, until the disbandment of the last regiment in 1944.

The Last Battle
Soldier Settlement in Australia 1916-1939
Bruce Scates and Melanie Oppenheimer

Richly illustrated with archival photographs and sketches, The Last Battle covers new ground in its social approach to the history of Australian soldier settlement and is an important contribution to the emerging field of repatriation studies.
Kokoda
Beyond the Legend
Edited by Karl James

In this book, Karl James brings together eminent military historians from Britain, the United States, Japan and Australia to reassess the principal battles from both Allied and Japanese perspectives, providing readers with a more complete understanding of one of the major turning points in the Second World War.

Australia 1942
In the Shadow of War
Edited by Peter Dean, Foreword by Kim Beazley

In 1942, the shadow of war reached Australia’s shores. This compelling volume explores how the nation confronted some of its greatest challenges in this pivotal year – political and economic reform, the role of the Air Force and the Navy, the bombing of Darwin and the battles of Kokoda and Milne Bay.

Anzac Battlefield
A Gallipoli Landscape of War and Memory
Edited by Antonio Sagona, Mithat Atabay, C. J. Mackie, Ian McGibbon and Richard Reid

Anzac Battlefield explores the transformation of Gallipoli’s landscape in antiquity, during the famed battles of the First World War and in the present day. Richly illustrated, this work is an important contribution to our understanding of Gallipoli and its landscape of war and memory.
Anzac Journeys
Returning to the Battlefields of World War Two
Bruce Scates
Bruce Scates charts the history of pilgrimages to the battlefields and cemeteries of World War Two. Based on surveys, interviews, fieldwork and archival research, Anzac Journeys offers insights into the culture of loss and the hunger for meaning pivotal to the experience of pilgrimage. Illustrated with full-colour maps and photographs.

Australia 1943
The Liberation of New Guinea
Edited by Peter J. Dean
Australia 1943 is the first detailed single-volume study of Australia’s military operations in the Pacific during 1943 - Australia’s ‘finest hour’ in the Second World War. It investigates critical operations from January 1943 to April 1944, including Salamaua, Lae/Nadzab, Finschhafen, Shaggy Ridge, the Markham Valley and the Huon Peninsula.

Australia 1944-45
Victory in the Pacific
Edited by Peter J. Dean
Australia 1944-45: Victory in the Pacific examines this under-represented period in Australian military history. Peter Dean leads a team of highly regarded military historians in assessing Australian, Allied and Japanese strategies, the conduct of the campaigns in the Southwest Pacific Area and Australia’s significant role in achieving victory.
The Australian Army from Whitlam to Howard
John Blaxland

The Australian Army from Whitlam to Howard is the first critical examination of Australia’s post-Vietnam military operations. Blaxland explores the ‘casualty cringe’ felt by political leaders following the war. He contends that the Army’s rehabilitation involved common individual and collective training and reaffirmation of the Army’s regimental and corps identities.

The Official History of Australian Army Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Post-Cold War Operations

The Limits of Peacekeeping
Australian Missions in Africa and the Americas, 1992–2005
Edited by Jean Bou, Bob Breen, David Horner and Garth Pratten

The Good Neighbour
Bob Breen

The Good Neighbour explores the Australian government’s efforts to support peace in the Pacific Islands from 1980 to 2006. It tells the story of the deployment of Australian diplomatic, military and policing resources at a time when neighbouring governments were under pressure from political violence and civil unrest.
In Their Time of Need
Australia’s Overseas Emergency Relief Operations 1918-2010
Steven Bullard

In Their Time of Need is richly detailed, as Steven Bullard weaves together official government records and archival images with the personal narratives and photographs of those who served. This volume is an authoritative and compelling history of Australia’s efforts to help their neighbours.

Australia and the New World Order
From Peacekeeping to Peace Enforcement: 1988-1991
David Horner

This is the first comprehensive and official study of Australia’s role in the peace enforcement operations that developed at the end of the Cold War. It recounts vital missions to Namibia, Iran and Pakistan/Afghanistan, but focuses primarily on Australia’s reaction to Iraq’s invasion of Kuwait in 1990.

The Good International Citizen
Australian Peacekeeping in Asia, Africa and Europe 1991-1993
David Horner and John Connor

Volume 3 of the official history of Australian peacekeeping, humanitarian and post-cold war operations explores Australia’s involvement in six missions following the end of the Gulf War. These missions reflected increasing complexity of peacekeeping, as it overlapped with enforcement of sanctions, weapons inspections, humanitarian aid, election monitoring and peace enforcement.
General Military History

The Battle for Moscow
David Stahel

This is a major new account of the German drive on Moscow in November 1941, one of the largest and most significant battles of the Second World War. Drawing on unparalleled research, David Stahel explores the disastrous erosion of German strength, which, even before the Soviet winter had spelled disaster.

The Rise and Fall of Comradeship
Hitler's Soldiers, Male Bonding and Mass Violence in the Twentieth Century
Thomas Kühne

Investigating how the ideals of kameradschaft (comradeship) developed within Germany as a collective yearning for national unity, this book explores how a divided society came to terms with the traumas of war and defeat. Across the twentieth century the gospel of comradeship not only provided the foundation for mass murder, but also for democratic peace post-1945.

The Iran-Iraq War
A Military and Strategic History
Williamson Murray and Kevin M. Woods

The Iran-Iraq War is one of the largest, yet least documented conflicts of the twentieth century. Drawing from an extensive cache of captured Iraqi government records, this book offers an unparalleled military and strategic account of the war through the lens of the Iraqi regime and its senior military commanders.

A Choice Outstanding Academic Title 2015
The Japanese Empire
Grand Strategy from the Meiji Restoration to the Pacific War
S. C. M. Paine

Charting the rise and fall of Japan, the model developing country of the nineteenth century, the overthrow of the traditional Asian balance of power, and enduring animosities, this is an essential guide for those interested in Asian and world history, comparative politics, international relations, security studies and Asian politics today.

Soldiers of Empire
Indian and British Armies in World War II
Tarak Barkawi

Soldiers of Empire offers a new account of the experience of war through a study of the Indian and British armies in World War II. It recounts a multicultural world of soldiering from the Punjab to Wales, from training and everyday life to combat against the Japanese in Burma.

The Red Army and the Second World War
Alexander Hill

In a definitive new account of the Soviet Union at war, Hill charts the development, successes and failures of the Red Army from the industrialisation of the Soviet Union in the late 1920s through to the end of the Great Patriotic War in May 1945.
Latin America and the First World War
Stefan Rinke

Latin America and the First World War employs a transnational lens to offer a comprehensive study of the subcontinent during World War I. Using a sweeping range of textual and visual sources, this book breaks new ground and adds a fresh dimension to the historiography of the Great War, of Latin America, and of international relations.

---

The Origins of the First World War
William Mulligan

The second edition of this leading introduction to the origins of the First World War. Updated to take account of the latest debates around the war’s origins and outbreak, this is an essential classroom text which significantly revises our understanding of diplomacy, political culture, and economic history from 1870 to 1914.

---

British Prisoners of War in First World War Germany
Oliver Wilkinson

Over 185,000 British military servicemen were captured by the Germans during the First World War. Utilising official government reports alongside private diaries, letters and personal testimonies, British Prisoners of War in First World War Germany restores the forgotten history of these men and their experiences of captivity to the historiography of the First World War.
