future: I will never forget the day the electricity stopped. That day I was planning to give a party to celebrate my 15th birthday. For that reason my refrigerator was full of all kind of sandwiches and desserts, and many bottles of cool beverages. At first, I thought that the electricity would return in a couple of minutes, as it usually did but, as the hours went by, I started to feel quite anxious and felt my sweat running down my back. I should not only blame my nerves for my sweat, but also the fact that it was the hottest day of that summer and, as I learned later, even of the decade! Of course, I had to cancel the party had been planning for almost a year.

past simple: You know, friends don't appreciate food poisoning and being invited to an oven (which was what my house had become since the air conditioner wasn't working). I remember having cried for almost a week. Eventually, I got over it, but I must say that, as long as I live, I will never forget that day.

past continuous: I was feeling quite anxious and was sweating.

past perfect continuous: I had been planning for almost a year.

past simple: I remember having cried for almost a week.

present simple: I will never forget that day.

past perfect: I had to cancel the party.

(Note also the good use of modal verbs in this story: would return, should not blame, had to cancel, must say.)

MY IDEAL PET - THE GERBIL

I would like to tell you about the gerbil. A gerbil is like a hamster but it has a long tail which has not got fur. Another difference is that a hamster lives alone whereas a gerbil is a friendly creature and prefers to live with others.

I am going to tell you why I consider the gerbil an ideal pet. Firstly: they are very clean, you wouldn't be worried about this. Secondly: they don't eat a lot. You can give them bread, milk, and all kind of fruit and vegetables like grapes, bananas, tomatoes. Thirdly: it is such an amusing pet. If you have a baby or a young child, they can play with the gerbil because it is not dangerous and children will enjoy it very much. Finally, the gerbil is cheaper than any other mascot.

Next, I would like to give you some important advice about how to look after your gerbil.

1 If I were you I would buy a big cage in order to give the gerbil enough space to run.

2 Gerbils hate water. A famous scientist advised me that a gerbil should never be cleaned/bathed with water.

I suggest you should buy "Nature" magazine, which will give you more advice about how you should take care of your gerbil.

I have read "Great Expectations" by Charles Dickens. I like this author very much. In the novel the main character Pip tells his own story, looking back on his life.

Estella is the second character in Great Expectations. The writer shows her as a beautiful girl who is being brought up by Miss Havisham because she lost her parents. Estella is a rude woman who is also arrogant. This characteristic is shown when she looks down on people who are not wearing elegant clothes. Estella shows that she has the power in the relationship with Pip, for example when only she permits that Pip kisses her.

From my point of view the last chapter in "Great Expectations" was so awful. The end of the book shows that Estelle probably learns that money and social life are not the most important things. I think these topics are helpful for anyone, especially for women.

Dear Sir

I recently stayed at your hotel for two nights and had a very unsatisfactory time there. My room was kind of small and it had no windows at all. Well, this is completely unacceptable! Surely you would agree that it is essential to have natural light, even in a hotel room.

Furthermore, the hotel breakfast was really disgusting. The coffee wasn't warm enough to drink and it tasted awful. On top of that, there was no fresh fruit and the bread rolls were so old they were like bricks.

On paying the final bill, I found I had been charged more than the quoted rate for the room. However, when I queried this, your staff refused to alter the bill. Your hotel messed up big time and I am therefore writing to you to request a partial refund.

I look forward to hearing from you without delay.

Love

Report on: Public Transport

1. Introduction

The aim of this report is to summarize the different ways in which you can travel from one place to another by public transport.

2. Buses

You have the chance to travel by bus.

This means of transport is not expensive and there are a lot of different lines of buses covering the whole city. On the other hand, if there is a traffic jam, it can take you a lot of time to get to the place that you are going to.

3. Trains

This public transport is cheaper and faster than the bus. The main disadvantage is that it is not very safe.

4. Subway

The subway is the way to get to a place more quickly. It is safe and it is not so expensive either. A lot of workers use it, so you needn't get worried about the people who travel in it.

In conclusion, you have many ways to travel. You only have to choose the best way depending on the situation.

Dear Competition Director

First of all, let me introduce myself. My name is Lorenza Sanchez. I am sixteen years old, and I am Mexican. I have lived here in England for 5 years now, so I speak English very well, as well as Spanish, and a moderate amount of French.

I would very much like to work for you in The Sports Competition this coming March, for the following reasons. Firstly, I am passionate about sports, and since my father and brother have extensive knowledge of various sports, I too know a lot about soccer, football, tennis and car racing. Secondly, I am an experienced hockey player and also enjoy playing volleyball.

Furthermore, I would like to be involved in working with people from different countries because I am particularly interested in learning about other cultures. I believe I would be an effective member of your international team of helpers, as I am a good communicator and I have a lot of stamina, so I can work long hours.

Please consider my application. I promise I will not let you down.

Yours truly

Hi Maria,

Thanks for your letter, I was starting to wonder if you'd forget about our holidays together. I can't wait till the 2nd! I'm sure we're going to have a great time. I'm supposed to get to Luton airport at half past eleven in the morning, but you know how air traffic works so you'd better be there at midday so you don't have to wait for too long. Don't worry about not recognising me, as I haven't changed too much. I'm just about 20cm taller and I've grown whiskers on my chin, which is quite an uncommon look. Besides, I'll recognise you anyway.

Spending a week in Scotland sounds really weird, but I'd rather be prepared for it. I've heard the weather is very chilly there and it rains all the time, is that true? So, what kind of clothes should I wear there? Probably warm jumpers and a waterproof coat would do, don't you think so? By the way, I reckon a nice present we could take to your cousins would be a bottle of Spanish red wine, which is famous for its lip-smacking taste.

Anyway, I've been told the coast of Sussex is one of the best in the British Isles and, as you live quite near to it, I thought we might enjoy staying there for a few days. Write back and tell me what you think.

Lots of love,

It was dangerous, but I knew I had to do it. It was a new challenge, and not only for me, but for everyone there. Nobody thought I was capable of doing it. I wasn't sure of what to do, and the pressure of everyone watching me was driving me mad. Finally, I managed to move my right foot closer to the edge. I could hear the crowd shouting "Go, go". That was my only chance. Only a few more seconds, otherwise my time would be over. I didn't even think of looking down. I was already paralysed, and that wouldn't help me at all. Then, by some 'strange power' my left foot was moving and I wanted to stop it, but it was too difficult. The clock was running... tick, tock... And suddenly everything stopped. I felt an enormous peace. Somehow I managed to jump out of the airplane and I was flying! Those minutes, up in the air, feeling the wind in my face, were fantastic. But then I was terrified when I couldn't open the parachute! Fortunately, I wasn't alone.

Do you prefer listening to live music or recorded music? Nowadays we have different choices when we want to listen to music. We can enjoy a whole afternoon sitting on a sofa listening to our favourite group or we can go to a live concert where thousands of people will be screaming and fainting, but you will have the pleasure to hear somebody you like playing the guitar or singing in front of you. If you are with a group of friends you will enjoy a meeting listening to music at home, and this has the advantage that you can hear as many different CDs as you want. However, on the other hand, it is amazing to go to a live concert and feel how the adrenaline bursts into your body when the band is playing. In conclusion we can say that it depends on the situation when you prefer recorded music to live music. If you want to be relaxed, nothing is better than a recorded tape, but if you want to feel some excitement, nothing is better than a live concert.

(* Note that a better choice of phrasal verb here would be runs through, although the examiner was impressed that the candidate knew bursts into!)
