Freedom of Information Act 2000
Publication Scheme: Guide to Information

Introduction
Cambridge University Press (the “Press”) is the publishing business of the University of Cambridge and as such is covered by the University’s Publication Scheme Guide to Information. This may be found at the link below:
https://www.admin.cam.ac.uk/univ/information/foi

The Press’s Guide provides some further information in addition to that found on the University of Cambridge’s Publication Scheme Guide to Information.

Format
This Guide contains information grouped into the following seven categories, as set out by the Information Commissioner:

- Who we are and what we do
- What we spend and how we spend it
- What our priorities are and how we are doing
- How we make decisions
- Our policies and procedures
- Lists and registers
- The services we offer

Charges
Most of the material referred to in this guide is published and can be downloaded from our website free of charge. The Press reserves the right to make a small reasonable charge for printed copies of some documents to cover administrative costs.

If a charge is to be made, confirmation of the payment due will be given before the information is provided. Payment may be requested prior to provision of the information.
Written Requests

Information held by the Press that is not published under this Guide can be requested in writing, when its provision will be considered in accordance with the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act.

Please address any written requests to: Freedom of Information Team, Cambridge University Press, University Printing House, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge, CB2 8BS or by email to foi@cambridge.org.

Guide to Information

Information grouped according to the Information Commissioner's categories.

1. Who We Are and What We Do:
Organisational information, locations and contacts, constitutional and legal governance.

History:-

The Press is the publishing business of the University of Cambridge, founded by Letters Patent in 1534 and is now a long-established international business.

It is governed by Statute J of the Statutes and Ordinances of the University of Cambridge and is managed by the Press Syndicate. The constitution of the Syndicate is established by Ordinance and the membership of the Syndicate is published in the University Reporter.

The Press has its own charitable status separate from that of the University. It is an educational charitable enterprise dedicated to printing and publishing for the advancement of knowledge, education and learning worldwide. The Press is not a registered charity as it is classed as being an exempt charity and is regulated by the Higher Education Funding Council for England.

Structure and Locations:-

The Press has over 50 offices throughout the world, some of which are regional branches, and some of which are sales offices. These regional branches and sales offices are owned and run by either The Syndicate of the Press of the University of Cambridge or the Press’s main holding company, Cambridge University Press (Holdings) Limited.

Cambridge University Press (Holdings) Limited is a wholly owned corporate subsidiary of the Press Syndicate, and was formed for the purpose of facilitating the establishment of branches and/or subsidiaries of the Press outside the United Kingdom. Cambridge University Press (Holdings) Limited is registered in England and Wales, registration no. 4606950, and has its registered office at University Printing House, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge, CB2 8BS. In accordance with the Companies Act 2006, the records of Cambridge University Press (Holdings) Limited are available for inspection at the registered office.

Details of the Press’s other subsidiary and holdings companies can be found in the Notes section of the University of Cambridge’s Annual Accounts: http://www.admin.cam.ac.uk/offices/finance/accounts/
Further details of the Press's other subsidiary and holdings companies are also available on written request from: General Counsel, Cambridge University Press, University Printing House, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge, CB2 8BS or by email to generalcounsel@cambridge.org.

Publishing Business:-

The Press website includes information about the Press's publishing businesses, an online catalogue of Press publications, information for prospective authors and details of employment possibilities.

2. What We Spend and How We Spend It:

Financial information relating to projected and actual income and expenditure, tendering, procurement and contracts.

The Annual Report and Accounts of the Press are published independently, and may be downloaded from the Press website: www.cambridge.org/annualreport.

The Executive Summary of the Report and Accounts is published on the website and in the Cambridge University Reporter. Printed copies of the Annual Report and Accounts are distributed to subscribers of the Reporter and may be purchased from the Press Bookshop at 1 Trinity Street, Cambridge, CB2 1RP, or direct from the Press.

Finance information beyond the annual report is not published on the internet.
3. What Our Priorities Are and How We Are Doing:
Strategy and performance information, plans, assessments, inspections and reviews.
The Annual Report may be found at: www.cambridge.org/annualreport

4. How We Make Decisions:
Policy proposals and decisions, decision making processes, internal criteria and procedures and consultations.
The Press Syndicate is the governing body of the Press and consists of 18 members who oversee the Press's business and formally approve titles for publishing.
Further information on the role of the Syndicate may be found in the Annual Report: www.cambridge.org/annualreport

Community Work
The Press actively supports its local communities through a Community Involvement Programme. The Press works to:

• identify local / educational / community projects which might benefit from help;

• encourage employees to contribute by offering their practical and professional skills; and

• recognise employee involvement through a Volunteer Hours programme, through which staff are eligible to take up to seven paid ‘volunteer hours’ per calendar year.

The Volunteer Hours programme works best when several staff members put their joint efforts towards projects. This means that collectively and over time we can build longer-term relationships and make a real difference to local educational and community projects.
