HOW TO SUBMIT A PROPOSAL

The Cambridge Elements in Public Policy

Editors: M Ramesh, Michael Howlett, David Weimer Xun Wu, Judith Clifton, Eduardo Araral

The Cambridge Elements in Public Policy publishes concise yet authoritative manuscripts on the state of the art as well as substantive new research on key topics in public policy. The series is currently divided into three thematic clusters:

- Approaches, Methods and Techniques of Policy Studies
- Policy Institutions and Processes
- Policy Appraisal and Evaluation

Please include the following information in your initial proposal to publish in the Series:

- Proposed Title.
- Names of all authors and their institutional affiliations.
- The relevant thematic cluster.
- A brief statement on the topic of the Element, what you see as the most important literature that you will review in the Element, where you see the most promising/exciting areas for future research and, if appropriate, how your own research is contributing to understanding of the topic.
- An explanation of how it relates to other recent publications on the topic.
- An outline of content. Keep in mind the Element’s word length of 20–30,000 words, including references and appendices.
- Expected date of completion.
- Relevant credentials of the author(s). A full curriculum vitae is not required.

Once a proposal is received, it will be evaluated by the editors to determine its suitability for the Series. If it does, you may be asked to submit additional supporting information, ranging from brief sample materials to a full manuscript, as appropriate. Your proposal would then be sent out for external peer review. Your editor will be able to give you an approximate timetable for this process.

Proposals are to be sent to the Editors at PublicPolicyElements@cambridge.org.

For further information on the Series, visit www.cambridge.org/academic/elements/public-policy