

Experience the glory and wonder of the Renaissance!

ARTISTIC CENTERS OF THE ITALIAN RENAISSANCE

Introducing a New Series...

*Cambridge University Press
is pleased to introduce a new series entitled*

ROME

edited by Marcia Hall of Temple University

VENICE AND THE VENETO

edited by Peter Humfrey of St Andrews (Fall 2005)

NORTHERN COURTS

edited by Charles Rosenberg of Notre Dame (Fall 2005)

ARTISTIC CENTERS OF THE ITALIAN RENAISSANCE

FLORENCE

edited by Frances Ames-Lewis of Birkbeck College, University of London (Fall 2007)

NAPLES AND SOUTHERN ITALY

edited by Andreas Beyer of the University of Basel and Thomas Willette of Notre Dame (Fall 2006)

Volumes in the series focus on several Italian city-states that were particularly active during the period 1300-1600 and chart their "rise and fall," a drama that is often related to their political and economic fortunes.

Each volume will examine regional traditions, the political, social and general cultural contexts in which art was created, patronage both corporate and individual and changes in religious and devotional practices and in particular how these affected the form and content of art works.

Volumes will cover all media, including painting, sculpture and architecture. An important aspect of these volumes is their emphasis on the decorative arts, including manuscript illumination, medals, cassoni and tapestries, which played a far more important role than has heretofore been acknowledged.

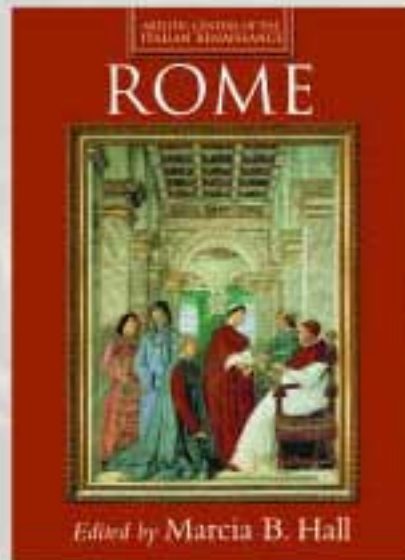

Finally these volumes will be designed and produced to the highest standards. Ranging from 400-450 pages in a large format, they will include a full illustration program of 250 halftones and 32 color plates.

---

Richly illustrated, volumes in this series will provide an up-to-date

and comprehensive overview of Italian art at a pivotal moment in its history.

Special introductory Price $130.00

This comprehensive history of the art of Rome examines the architecture, sculpture, painting, and decorative arts of the High Renaissance together in their social, religious, political and economic context. It tells the story of three centuries, from 1300 to 1600, in which the Eternal City rose from the ashes of its decline to become the Christian reembodyment of the Roman Empire.

Hardback ISBN 0-521-62445-2 / $150.00
450 pages / 32 color plates / 220 halftones

This is the ONLY comprehensive history of Roman art in the Renaissance in print. All the arts, running the gamut from architecture and painting to sculpture and the decorative arts, are studied together in their social, religious, economic and political context. Beautifully illustrated, the volume presents an unprecedented visual survey of a three hundred year period, with many monuments rephotographed, some for the first time. At the core are the great masters of the High Renaissance Michelangelo, Raphael, and Bramante.

CONTENTS

Part I Introduction

1. Cultural Introduction to Renaissance Rome by Ingrid D. Rowland
2. Introduction to the Art History of Renaissance Rome by Marcia B. Hall

Part II

1. The Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries by Meredith J. Gill
2. 1503-1534 by Marcia B. Hall
3. Phoenix Romanus Rome 1534-65 by Clare Robertson
4. The Counter Reformation and the End of the Century by Steven E. Ostrow

- * There is nothing else like it: no comprehensive history of Roman Renaissance Art is in print.
- * Photographs include many monuments that are not readily available, or available at all.
- * The approach is contextual, particularly from the point of view of the history of the papal patronage.

'Art used with the kind permission of Art Resource NY'