IPA … Better Mental Health for Older People
International Psychogeriatric Association (IPA)

Representing more than 66 countries around the world, IPA is a unique and diverse professional healthcare community promoting better geriatric mental health — across disciplines, across borders, and across geriatric issues. Psychiatrists, Scientists, Neurologists, Geriatricians, Primary Care Physicians, Epidemiologists, Nurses, Psychologists, Occupational Therapists, Social Workers, and many other healthcare professionals come to the IPA community from all over the globe to discuss, learn, share, and research information about behavioral and biological aspects of geriatric mental health. IPA’s leaders and members contribute their wealth of expertise and knowledge from the research, clinical, education, service and program development arenas.

There are many benefits to being a member of IPA, including a subscription to this peer-reviewed journal, International Psychogeriatrics. For more information please contact info@ipa-online.org.

IPA … Better Mental Health for Older People
The International Psychogeriatric Association (IPA) invites national and regional organizations in the field of Psychogeriatrics to apply for affiliation.

We believe much can be accomplished when organizations work together to achieve shared goals. Together we can find ways to support more effective research efforts, better educational and informational activities, and enlightened public policy in all nations.

Organizations that have goals addressing mental health and aging issues are eligible to apply for affiliation. Affiliate organizations can be from any of the various disciplines associated with IPA. IPA also welcomes multiple organizations from any country.

Below we acknowledge these outstanding organizations as IPA Affiliates and our joint commitment to the common goal of better mental health for older people.

Scope and contributions

International Psychogeriatrics is written and read by those primarily concerned with the field of mental health and aging. The journal welcomes contributions from all concerned with the field of mental health and aging. Original research papers are particularly sought.

Contributions include original research articles, case reports, reviews of the literature, book reviews, letters to the editor, and editorials. Apart from editorial and book reviews, which are commissioned, contributions to International Psychogeriatrics are peer-reviewed and submitted by authors. Papers are reviewed by two expert reviewers selected by the Editor-in-Chief. At present, about half of the papers submitted are accepted for publication. The journal’s Science Citation Index Impact Factor (2016) is 2.88. Submission of a paper implies that it is under consideration for publication elsewhere, not previously published in English. Manuscripts must be formatted double-spaced with ample margins on all sides and the pages should be numbered. International Psychogeriatrics uses the spelling of American English. Manuscripts written by those whose primary language is English should be edited for clarity and language prior to submission. The journal has a Language Assistance Panel consisting of both native English speakers willing to check manuscripts for style prior to submission, and bilingual experts willing to assist with the translation of manuscripts into English. Further details including contact information for individual panel members can be found at both the journal and IPA websites (journals.cambridge.org and www.ipa-online.org).

The instructions for contributors can be found at the International Psychogeriatrics website and IPA. Please read these instructions carefully before submitting articles. Articles that are not prepared in accordance with these guidelines will be
