AWARD COMMITTEES

Gabriel A. Almond Prize

The Gabriel A. Almond Prize is awarded annually for the best dissertation in the field of comparative politics. It carries a prize of $750. The award was created in recognition of Gabriel Almond's contributions to the discipline, profession, and association. He was a long-time faculty member at Stanford University and former APSA president (1966). Almond's scholarly work contributed directly to the development of theory in comparative politics and brought together work on the developing areas and Western Europe that prevented splintering into an array of disparate areas studies.

2010 Award Committee:

Kathleen M. Bruhn, University of California, Santa Barbara

Beatriz Magaloni, Stanford University
Nicolas van de Walle, Cornell University, chair

William Anderson Prize

The William Anderson Prize is awarded annually for the best dissertation in the general field of federalism or intergovernmental relations, state and local politics. It carries a prize of $750. The award was set up in honor of William Anderson, former APSA president, who was a leading American authority in the areas of local government, public administration, intergovernmental relations, and the history of political science. He did much to shape teaching and research in these fields not only at his own university, but throughout the country.

2010 Award Committee:

James G. Gimpel, University of Maryland, College Park, chair

Thad Kousser, University of California, San Diego

Carol S. Weissert, Florida State University

Edward S. Corwin Prize

The Edward S. Corwin Prize is awarded annually for the best dissertation in the field of public law. It carries a prize of $750. The Corwin award is for the best doctoral dissertation completed and accepted during that year or the previous year in the field of public law, broadly defined to include the judicial process, judicial behavior, judicial biography, courts, law, legal systems, the American constitutional system, civil liberties, or any other substantial area, or any work which deals in a significant fashion with a topic related to or having substantial impact on the American Constitution.

2010 Award Committee:

Cornell W. Clayton, Washington State University

Kathryn Hendley, University of Wisconsin–Madison, chair

Ken I. Kersch, Boston College

Harold D. Lasswell Award

The Harold D. Lasswell Prize is awarded annually for the best dissertation in the field of public policy. The award is co-sponsored by the Policy Studies Organization and the APSA Public Policy Organized Section. It carries a prize of $1,000.

2010 Award Committee:

Julia Lynch, University of Pennsylvania

John T. Woolley, University of California, Santa Barbara, chair

John Zysman, University of California, Berkeley

Helen Dwight Reid Prize

The Helen Dwight Reid Prize is awarded annually for the best dissertation in the field of international relations, law, and politics. The award is supported by the Helen Dwight Reid Educational Foundation. It carries a prize of $750.

2010 Award Committee:

Michael H. Allen, Bryn Mawr College, chair

Katherine Barbieri, University of South Carolina

Kenneth A. Schultz, Stanford University

E. E. Schattschneider Prize

The E. E. Schattschneider Prize is awarded annually for the best doctoral dissertation completed and accepted during that year or the previous year in the field of American government. This award fund was established in 1971 in honor of Elmer Eric ("E. E.") Schattschneider, a former APSA president and widely published and respected political scientist. It carries a prize of $750.

2010 Award Committee:

Sarah Binder, Brookings Institution and George Washington University, chair

William G. Mayer, Northeastern University

Tracy Sulkin, University of Illinois, Urbana–Champaign

Leo Strauss Prize

The Leo Strauss Prize is awarded annually for the best dissertation in the field of political philosophy. It carries a prize of $750.

The fund was developed by former students of Strauss who sought to recognize his extraordinary influence on generations of students and his contributions to the field of political philosophy. A former president of APSA, he was a major figure in the department of political science at the University of Chicago, where he taught from 1949 to 1967.

2010 Award Committee:

Mark Bevir, University of California, Berkeley, chair

Nadia Urbinati, Columbia University

Juliet A. Williams, University of California, Los Angeles

Leonard D. White Prize

The Leonard D. White Prize is awarded annually for the best dissertation in the field of public administration. The award is supported by the University of Chicago. It carries a prize of $750.

2010 Award Committee:

Jocelyn M. Johnston, American University

Craig W. Thomas, University of Washington, chair

Michael M. Ting, Columbia University

The Heinz Eulau Prize

The Heinz Eulau Prize is awarded annually for the best article published in the American Political Science Review and for the best article published in Perspectives on Politics. It carries a prize of $500. Special thanks go to Cambridge University Press for support of the new prize given in 2005, recognizing scholarship in Perspectives on Politics.

In 2004, the APSA Council acted to incorporate the best paper published in Perspectives on Politics under the umbrella of the Heinz Eulau Award, as well as the best paper published in APSR. This action was taken to allow APSA to recognize articles in Perspectives on Politics in a way parallel with APSR, without transgressing a council moratorium on new awards. As we build up award endowment, we expect in the future that the two awards will be separated. To manage the effort involved in selecting best articles for two journals, APSA president Margaret Levi, in consultation with the Award Committee chair, increased the number of appointees to the Eulau Committee from 3 to 5, and suggested that two members focus on APSR articles and two on Perspectives on Politics.

articles, with the chair acting as the swing participant and coordinating voice.
