The Asian Journal of International Law (AsianJIL) is the journal of the Asian Society of International Law.

and news emails here www.AsiarnJIL.org

AsianJIL publishes peer-reviewed scholarly articles and book reviews on public and private international law. Articles focus on Asian issues or bring one of the many Asian perspectives to bear on global issues, but AsianJIL is also of more general interest to scholars, practitioners, and policymakers located in or working on Asia.

International Journal of Law in Context

A global forum for interdisciplinary legal studies

The International Journal of Law in Context now features an exciting new section entitled ‘Law in other contexts’. This section is dedicated to making available specially commissioned reports of socio-legal research in places where English is not the first language. In this way the journal hopes to bring attention to work which may not be easily accessible to those without knowledge of the relevant language (and culture).

journals.cambridge.org/ijlc

The companion journal to the Law in Context book series.
TEL is dedicated to the development of new ideas on law’s contribution to environmental governance in a global context. It approaches legal and regulatory developments with an interest in the contribution of nonstate actors and an awareness of the multi-level governance context in which contemporary environmental law unfolds.

TEL warmly invites new work on topics within the scope of the journal from scholars, lawyers and professionals active in fields related to environmental law and governance.

Further information can be found on the TEL homepage: journals.cambridge.org/tel
The Asian Journal of Comparative Law (AsJCL) is an initiative of the Asian Law Institute (ALI), an association established by thirteen leading law schools in Asia and with a rapidly expanding membership base across Asia and in other world regions. The journal provides a forum for research and discussion of the law and legal systems of Asia, and aims to encourage and ventilate new scholarship on Asian legal issues. It embraces work that is theoretical, empirical, socio-legal, doctrinal or comparative that relates to one or more Asian legal systems. In practice Asia is defined as including East, Central, South East, and South Asia, as well as articles that compare one or more Asian legal systems with non-Asian systems. The journal seeks articles which display an intimate knowledge of Asian legal systems, and thus provides a window to the way they work in practice.
The International Review of the Red Cross promotes reflection on humanitarian law, policy and action in armed conflict and other situations of collective armed violence. A specialized journal in humanitarian law, it endeavours to promote knowledge, critical analysis and development of the law and to contribute to the prevention of violations of rules protecting fundamental rights and values. The Review offers a forum for discussion about contemporary humanitarian action as well as analysis of the causes and characteristics of conflicts so as to give a clearer insight into the humanitarian problems they generate. Finally, the Review informs its readership on questions pertaining to the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement and in particular on the activities and policies of the Red Cross.
The Ecclesiastical Law Journal publishes articles on all aspects of ecclesiastical law. Particular emphasis is given to the regulation of the Church of England and worldwide Anglican Communion, but the range of coverage includes comparative studies of the laws of other faiths and of the interface between law and religion in a global perspective. Through its regular Comment section, the journal provides a critical analysis of emergent trends written by distinguished scholars and practitioners in Europe and North America. The journal also includes book reviews and summaries of recent ecclesiastical cases determined by both secular and church courts, together with a parliamentary report, a brief summary of the proceedings of national Synods, and resumes of major international conferences.
BIICL Partnership Opportunities

The demand for our work in a constantly changing world is growing and is limited only by our resources. We rely heavily on funding from law firms, corporations, international bodies, foundations, individuals and others. By supporting our work, donors and funders have an opportunity to make a positive and lasting difference around the world whilst raising their profile with our global network of legal practitioners, academics, in-house counsel, government officials, NGOs and students.

- BIICL Fund: Shaping our Future
  This Fund provides an opportunity for members and friends to make unrestricted donations, enabling us to expand our team, refurbish our premises and promote our work to a wider audience. It also gives us the flexibility to respond more quickly to global events and to embark on projects or recruitment without waiting for funding.

- Funding for Research Fellowships
  We are very grateful to the Vivmar Foundation, the Dorset Foundation and to Herbert Smith Freehills LLP for their ongoing support for Senior Research Fellowships. We are currently seeking funding for further research fellowships. Please see details on our website.

- The Bingham Appeal
  The Bingham Centre for the Rule of Law was launched in 2010 and for the promotion and enhancement of the rule of law worldwide. We are aiming to raise £5million by 2020 to fund the Centre’s growing network of talented research fellows and portfolio of applied research projects.

- The Arthur Watts Appeal
  The Arthur Watts Senior Research Fellowship in Public International Law was founded in memory of the late Sir Arthur Watts, one of the leading international lawyers of his generation. The establishment of the Fellowship has been made possible by the generosity of numerous benefactors.

- Research Projects
  Our core funders may also choose to support a specific research project in an area of interest to them. This could be any subject which has an international and comparative law or rule of law focus and can be global, regional or sector specific.

- Internship programmes
  BIICL is fortunate to have the assistance of high quality interns from all over the world, and is seeking funding for a number of internships in all areas of BIICL’s work.

Events and Sponsorship

BIICL runs a dynamic and topical programme of events throughout the year. Our events attract high profile speakers, many of whom are leaders in their field. Events are generally open to all BIICL members and the public. Sponsorship is available for many of our events including conferences, lectures, dinners and seminars in the UK and overseas.

WAYS TO GIVE

- The Gift Aid scheme allows BIICL to claim an additional 25p for each pound donated by UK taxpayers (including LLPs).
- US donors can donate via The International Rule of Law Project Inc. (IROLP), founded by supporters of BIICL and the Bingham Centre for the Rule of Law, and a 501 (c) 3 public charity in the US. For further information, please visit www.irolp.org.
- In the UK, a legacy in your will in favour of BIICL means that the value of your gift will be deducted from your estate before Inheritance Tax is calculated.
- Gifts of publicly quoted shares, exempt from capital gains tax liability, enable donors to claim tax relief on the current value of the shares making such gifts extremely tax-efficient.
- Gifts in kind such as printing services or venues and catering help BIICL to keep overheads low. If you might be able to help in this way, please contact our Development office.

ABOUT THE BRITISH INSTITUTE OF INTERNATIONAL AND COMPARATIVE LAW

The British Institute of International and Comparative Law (BIICL) is a leading independent legal research and membership organisation with charitable status, unaffiliated to any university. It is the only body of its kind in the UK and one of very few in the world. It is not publicly or privately funded by any one government, institution or person. Established in 1958 and based in London with a dedicated team of staff, it brings together legal practitioners in private and public practice, in-house counsel, scholars and students, as members and contributors. It has developed a strong global network in international and comparative law and the rule of law.

BIICL undertakes five key activities: applied legal research, events, capacity-building training, publications and membership services. We conduct research around the world across the broad range of public international law, private international law, comparative law, competition law, European law and international investment law and the rule of law. Our focus is on applied research, based on strong conceptual foundations, which is practical, offers examples of good practice, and recommendations for policy and legal actions. Our activities often cross the traditional boundaries of law, so as to engage with contemporary national, regional and international issues, and we consistently have an impact on law and policy worldwide.

BIICL has created a diverse community of scholars and practitioners and serves as an unrivalled focal point for our substantial membership base. BIICL members include judges, practising lawyers, government officials, regulators, international civil servants, academics and students. We keep our members abreast of the latest developments in international and comparative law.

Within BIICL, the Bingham Centre for the Rule of Law is devoted to the study and promotion of the rule of law worldwide. Launched in 2010, the Centre has established a broad base of work internationally that highlights threats to the rule of law while promoting high quality studies and training.

When founded in 1952, the International and Comparative Law Quarterly was the only journal which offered the reader coverage of comparative law as well as public and private international law as well as European Union law. Since then it has maintained its pre-eminence amongst journals of its kind and it continues to offer practitioners and academics wide topical coverage without compromising rigorous editorial standards.

Membership of the British Institute of International and Comparative Law brings with it a subscription to the International and Comparative Law Quarterly, or it is available as a personal annual subscription from the distributor Cambridge University Press.
