On the cover: Johnston, Frances Benjamin, photographer. Mills Thompson, ca. 1900. [Place not identified; Publisher not identified] Photograph. https://www.loc.gov/item/2015647064/. Frances Benjamin Johnston (1864–1952) was a professional photographer, known at the turn of the century for her portraits of notable Americans including Theodore Roosevelt and his family, Booker T. Washington, Mark Twain, and Susan B. Anthony. She also took numerous photographs of herself and her friends that mocked and subverted conventional gender norms. Mills Thompson (1875–1944) was an American illustrator who created numerous covers for Schribner’s and the Saturday Evening Post. The New York Times recently published a retrospective on Johnston. https://www.nytimes.com/2021/12/15/obituaries/frances-benjamin-johnston-overlooked.html.
