The Origins of the Cultural Revolution
Volume Two: The Great Leap Forward, 1958–1960
Roderick MacFarquhar

The Great Leap Forward was Mao Tse-tung’s attempt to short cut the process of economic development by mobilizing China’s masses to propel their country overnight into a modernized communist utopia. It resulted in economic depression, political strife, and international dissension. It was a major milestone along the road to the cultural revolution and its effects are being felt and its lessons learned even today. This second volume of Roderick MacFarquhar’s history will be essential reading for scholars, journalists, and diplomats interested in China, and for political scientists and development economists. £22.50

The Rise of Modern China
Third edition
Immanuel C. Y. Hsu

In the third edition of The Rise of Modern China, the author has carefully pruned the text in order to make room for a new section on China after the death of Mao Tse-tung in 1976. Topics in this new section include the crimes of the Gang of Four, changes in Chinese agricultural policies, in the manner and cost of industrialization, the Deng Xiaoping government, the dynamics of US-Chinese relations, the Chinese invasion of Vietnam, and the changing relations between Taiwan and mainland China. As well, Hsu has completely updated the list of further reading that ends each chapter, and has added many new photographs. Illustrated £17.50

Chinese Society in Rural Malaysia
A Local History of the Chinese of Titi, Jelebu
Laurence K. L. Siaw

This study traces the story of a typical rural Chinese community in Malaysia which in this case settled in a remote corner of the state of Negeria Sembilan. The evolution of this community from its earliest pioneering days in the nineteenth century up till the early 1960s, represents in microcosm the experience of the Chinese immigrant in the land of his adoption throughout Peninsular Malaysia, and provides a deep insight into his attitudes and problems. £17

Manuscripts
The China Quarterly welcomes the submission of manuscripts from scholars, including research students, on all aspects of contemporary China and from all points of view, including those which deal with Taiwan and the Overseas Chinese. Articles on China prior to 1949 are also welcome, particularly, but not exclusively, when these relate directly to contemporary China or to the history of the Chinese Communist Party. Articles should be submitted, in triplicate, to the editorial office. They should be typed in double spacing, footnotes being placed at the end of the article; preferably conform to the styling of The China Quarterly; and normally not exceed 8-10,000 words in length. Submission of a manuscript is taken to imply that it has not previously been published and that it is not currently being considered elsewhere.

The China Quarterly is published by the Contemporary China Institute of the School of Oriental and African Studies, London University. The views expressed in articles are those of individual authors and do not necessarily represent the views of the Contemporary China Institute.
