

in September, 1964.

Andrew C. Janos, formerly of Princeton University, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of California (Berkeley).

In September, 1964, Barbara Jelavich was promoted to associate professor at Indiana University.

Stanley B. Kimball, of Southern Illinois University (Alton), has been promoted to associate professor of history.

Hans Kohn, professor emeritus at the College of the City of New York, was visiting professor of history at the University of Texas during the fall semester 1964-65. This spring he is visiting professor of political science at the University of Pennsylvania.

Enno Kraehe, formerly associate professor of history at the University of Kentucky, went to the University of North Carolina in September, 1964, as professor of modern European history.

Alfred D. Low has been appointed professor of history and political science at Youngstown University.

Arthur J. May, of the University of Rochester, has retired as professor of history and has been appointed university historian.

Paul W. Schroeder was promoted to professor of history at the University of Illinois in September, 1964.

Robert Schwarz, formerly of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, has been appointed professor of history at Florida Atlantic University at Boca Raton.

Peter F. Sugar, of the University of Washington, was promoted to associate professor of history in September, 1963.

S. Harrison Thomson, professor emeritus at the University of Colorado, is visiting professor at the University of Washington in 1964-65.

Gabor Vermes was appointed instructor of history at Stanford University in September, 1964.

RESEARCH ACTIVITIES AND LECTURES

At the business meeting of the Conference Group for Central European History in Philadelphia, Pa., on December 29, 1963, Robert A. Kann, of Rutgers University, was elected president for 1964. Raymond J. Sontag, of the University of California (Berkeley), was elected vice-president; and William A. Jenks, of Washington and Lee University, secretary-treasurer.

Stephen Borsody, of Chatham College, presented a paper entitled "Peace and Federalism in Central Europe" as the Oscar Jászi Memorial Lecture at Oberlin College on October 24, 1963.

Maurice Czikkann-Zichy, of Immaculate College, has recently given a lecture at Philadelphia on the history and significance of the crown of St. Stephen of Hungary.

Edward L. Hawes, a graduate student at the University of Wisconsin, is in Vienna collecting material for a doctoral dissertation on Austrian agricultural history.

Toussaint Hočevár, of Keuka College, read a paper on "Ethnicity and Economic Development: the Case of Slovenia before 1918" at the annual meeting of the New York State Economic Association at Harpur College on April 18, 1964.

Robert A. Kann, of Rutgers University, gave a lecture on "The Evolution of Federalism" at the Institute of Advanced Study in Vienna in April, 1964.

William McGill, of Alma College, presented a paper on "Kaunitz, Prussia, and the Reversal of Alliances" at the meeting of the history section of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts, and Letters on March 27, 1964.

Arnold H. Price, of the Library of Congress, is reviewing the holdings of that library in the field of Austrian history. This systematic survey of monographs and serial publications in Austrian history is to serve as a basis for making purchases to fill in the gaps in the library's holdings.

Ulrich Trumpener, of the State University of Iowa, did research in the Haus-, Hof-, und Staatsarchiv, in Vienna, during the summer of 1963. His major areas of investigation were Austro-Hungarian political and economic relations with the Ottoman empire during World War I and the Austrian government's reactions to Germany's Turkish policies at that time.

J. M. Vesel, of the West Coast Branch of the Defense Language Institute, recently lectured on "Yugoslavia from Francis Ferdinand's Trialism to Tito's Federation of Socialist Republics" at a meeting of the Commonwealth Club of California in San Francisco.

Joseph F. Zacek, of Occidental College, presented a paper on "Palacký and the Marxists" at the second congress of the Czechoslovak Society of Arts and Sciences in New York City in September, 1964. He has also been appointed program chairman for the convention of the Far Western Slavic Conference which will be held at Claremont, California, in April, 1965.

At the American Croatian Academic Club meeting in Cleveland on September 5-7, 1964, a number of papers were presented which dealt with Balkan and Habsburg history. Among the participants were Paul N. Hehn, of the University of Ohio; George Prpic, of John Carroll University; and George W. Hoffman, of the University of Texas.

A symposium on "Czechoslovakia, Past and Present," which was given under the auspices of the Czechoslovak Society of Arts and Sciences, was held at Columbia University in September, 1964.

SPECIAL COURSES

Istvan Deak, of Columbia University, is giving an undergraduate course on the political and social history of Central Europe, 1815-1956, which deals mainly with Austria. The first semester is devoted to the history of the Habsburg monarchy before 1914. The second semester the course deals with the Succession States since the First World War.

Paul H. Hehn is offering a special course on the history of the Habsburg monarchy at the University of Ohio.

During the academic year 1964-65 Rice University inaugurated a graduate research seminar in Austrian history.

ADDITIONS TO LIBRARY COLLECTIONS

The Carnegie Institute of Technology library has recently enlarged its holdings on Austria-Hungary and post-1918 Austria by about one hundred and fifty volumes.

The Columbia University library has recently acquired several thousand volumes on Hungary.

The Slavic and Central European Division of the Library