The Journal of Economic History is devoted to the interdisciplinary study of history and economics, and is of interest not only to economic historians but to social and demographic historians, as well as economists in general. The journal has broad coverage, in terms of both method and geographic scope. Topics include money and banking, trade, manufacturing, technology, transportation, industrial organization, labor, agriculture, servitude, demography, education, and the role of government and regulation. In addition, an extensive review section includes the latest books in economic history and related fields.
INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Editorial policy
Financial History Review, published by Cambridge University Press on behalf of the European Association for Banking and Financial History e.V., is committed to high international standards of publishing research results on banking and financial history. It considers articles on any topic relevant to the history of banking, financial markets and financial institutions, and their interaction with industry, politics, and social life. Financial History Review welcomes contributions from across a wide range of disciplines, including economic history, economic geography, history, political science, sociology, and cultural studies.

INFORMATION FOR SUBMISSIONS

Submission
Manuscripts may be submitted through the online submission facility available on the Review’s web page: http://journals.cambridge.org/FHR. Authors are required to upload:

1. Submission of a paper will be taken to imply that it is unpublished (even in a language other than English) and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. The author declares that the paper is his/her own work and that it has not been submitted for publication elsewhere.

2. A blinded copy of the manuscript (The cover page of the document should include, the paper's title, abstract (max. 200 words), a short list of keywords). Each author should also provide a short biography (max. 100 words), with institutional affiliation, together with some specific details about the length of time spent on the research, and the place of research.

3. For all other use of material from the journal (e.g. tables, graphics) permission will be required from the copyright owner.

4. Submission of a paper may be accompanied by a short list of keywords (maximum 10-15 words) and an abstract (maximum 250 words).

5. Dates:

- Submission of the manuscript
- Acceptance of the manuscript
- Online publication of the manuscript
- Printed publication of the manuscript

6. Papers, figures, and tables cannot be submitted to more than one journal or periodical in parallel.

7. The author is responsible for ensuring that the manuscript is correct and complete before submission.

8. The Review considers submission to the Review in the context of the works published in the Review in the last ten years.

9. All notes are to be included as footnotes and numbered in ascending order of appearance in Arabic numbers as superscript after the full stop of the sentence or paragraph.

10. Tables and graphs. Tables and maps may be submitted in the form of separate files, but should be included in the total word count.

Preparation of manuscripts

1. Manuscripts should be double spaced throughout on A4, 20 lines to the page, 7.2 cm to the right-hand margin.

2. Pages should be numbered consecutively beginning with the title page, and not be numbered on the title page. The title page should include the name of the author(s), institutional affiliation, and full contents of the corresponding author (e-mail address, academic position, postal address, telephone, fax).

3. A blinded copy of the manuscript is sufficient, and all except for the title and cover page should be deleted from the manuscript.
