... You do!

Ten years ago, in my first edition of the Gazette as its editor, I opened with a short editorial "Who reads the Gazette?" That was the start of a decade of the most wonderful correspondence with mathematics teachers throughout the world.

I asked for suggestions on ways of improving the Gazette and I hope that, over the last ten years, these changes have been incorporated. We have many more notes and short articles, and a much larger proportion of them are from (and suitable for) school teachers. In addition we have a "Problem corner".

As it has become clear that I welcomed readable articles at an elementary level, so I have received many more of them, and my correspondence with school teachers has escalated. I still get enormous pleasure from this correspondence, but I feel that the time has come to hand over the editorship to someone with the sort of enthusiasm and energy for mathematics which I had ten years ago! I am sure that in Nick MacKinnon we have just such a man.

I wish him every success in a job which I know he will love as much as I did. And I still look forward, as Associate Editor, to helping and to corresponding with the many friends I have made through these pages.
