Political Science Research and Methods

Political Science Research and Methods (PSRM) is a general political science journal dedicated to publishing original scholarly work of the highest quality from all subfields of political science. PSRM also welcomes work at the intersection of political science and related disciplines. Manuscripts should apply rigorous methods to empirical or theoretical problems. PSRM is the official journal of the European Political Science Association (EPSA), the organization that sets the journal’s policies.

Editor-in-chief: Paul Kellstedt, Texas A&M University, USA

Notes for Contributors

All manuscripts should be submitted via our on-line system, ScholarOne Manuscripts at:
http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/psrm

Other forms of submission will not be accepted by the editors.

The journal publishes two types of articles:

a) full length manuscripts that present original, well researched, and fully developed empirical or theoretical work
b) research notes

Normal length articles that should not exceed 9,000 words in length, including tables, figures, footnotes, references and printed appendices, but excluding any supporting material that can be relegated to an online appendix.

Research notes that should not exceed 4,000 words in length, including tables, figures, footnotes, references and printed appendices, but excluding any supporting material that can be relegated to an online appendix.

Research notes should contain original work and present a new method or methodology (particularly useful if related software components are included) to solve an important problem in applied data analysis, present a new theoretical idea or argument, or comment on other articles published in the journal. As a general rule, authors should not reproduce their research notes as comments to as well as replicates of published articles. These will undergo the usual peer review process and if accepted will be published in the research notes section of the journal.

PSRM uses a single-blind peer review process, thus anonymizing your manuscript is not necessary. If you feel strongly about a fully anonymous review process, you may opt out and your manuscript will undergo a double blind review process.

Replication Policy: PSRM has a strict replication policy which adheres to the Data Access and Research transparency (DA-RT) statement subscribed to by many Political Science Journal Editors in 2015. Authors are required to make replication material publicly available at time of publication of the article. The replication materials must be sufficient to replicate results in all tables and figures printed in the article, including simulation material for both theoretical (e.g agent based models) and empirical (e.g. Monte Carlo experiments) work. Data and replication code for your article, as well as a log demonstrating smooth running of all the replication files, must be uploaded in a single .zip file to the PSRM Dataverse at https://dataverse.harvard.edu/dataverse/PSRM. (See the PSRM Dataverse Guide for a step-by-step walkthrough for uploading your material, which is also linked to on the PSRM Dataverse homepage) This is a necessary condition for the publication of the manuscript. All manuscripts are accepted contingent on their replicability, which will initially be assessed by PSRM staff. Manuscripts that are not replicable will be rejected for publication. If your analysis relies on simulation techniques (MCMC, MC experiments) we require authors to simulate and communicate a seed, so that exact results can be replicated. If this is impossible due to the design of the analysis, replication results need not deviate by more than 5 per cent from published results in the manuscript.
