INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Editorial policy
This quarterly review, published by Cambridge University Press on behalf of the European Association for Banking and Financial History, e.V. is devoted to the advance of research in the field of Finance, Banking and Insurance and, in particular, historical and current issues dealing with the interaction of financial systems and the real world. The Review is intended to serve a broad approach to publishing research findings within this growing historical discipline. Articles, can address banking, financial and monetary history from different perspectives, including theoretically inspired approaches, advanced empirical research, and the interactions between history, finance, policy and culture. The Review particularly encourages contributions from young scholars.

Articles should normally be of 8,000 words including footnotes, tables or any other illustrative material (a graph occupying an a page is deemed equivalent to 300 words).

The journal is published in English and contributions should be submitted in that language. Authors whose native language is other than English are encouraged to provide a summary in a professional native translation for a preliminary review prior to submission.
