

ANNUAL REVIEW OF APPLIED LINGUISTICS

(ISSN 0267-1905)

Robert B. Kaplan, Editor-in-Chief

Now in its tenth year, the Annual Review of Applied Linguistics continues to survey research in the field of applied linguistics and to comment on current trends and new directions. Each issue is thematic, covering topics from language policy to multilingualism to linguistic minorities and their verbal repertoires by means of critical summaries, overviews, and bibliographic citations with annotation. Every fifth issue surveys applied linguistics broadly, offering timely essays on pedagogy, computer-assisted instruction, second-language acquisition, and lexicography, to name just a few of the important areas reviewed. Providing, on the average, 500 new citations each year, the Annual Review of Applied Linguistics (ARAL) is an invaluable source for all applied linguists, language teachers, and students of linguistics.

The current issue, VOLUME 10, concerns itself with a broad overview of applied linguistics at the verge of the last decade of the 20th century.
