Statement of Aims

The World Trade Review was established at the initiative of the Secretariat of the World Trade Organization (WTO) in close cooperation with Cambridge University Press. The mission of the World Trade Review is to provide a platform for rigorous, high quality scholarship that addresses salient questions regarding the system of international law and organisations governing trade and foreign investment. Such questions are inherently inter-disciplinary, and the managing editors encourage articles that address trade and investment governance from economic, legal, political, historical and inter-disciplinary perspectives. The peer review process assures that articles meet the highest standards in terms of methodological rigour. The aim is to have impact not only in an academic sense, but also in the broader sense of bettering our understanding of systemic challenges through critical analysis and constructive debate. We encourage contributions from all corners of the world. While academic rigour is important, priority is placed on articles that are accessible to policy officials and the wider public.
CONTENTS

523 Shifting into Digital Services: Does a Financial Crisis Matter and for Who?
Erik van der Marel

550 Lessons for International Small and Medium-Sized Enterprises from Counterfeiting Civil Litigations in China
Chuanzi Cai

Belay Seyoum and Rebecca Abraham

597 Fair Use of Geographical Indications: Another Look at the Spirited Debate on the Level of Protection
Xinzhe Song and Xiaoyan Wang

Research Note

619 Carbon Border Measures, Environmental Effectiveness and WTO Law Compatibility: Is There a Way Forward for the Steel and Aluminium Climate Club?
Giulia Claudia Leonelli

From the Trenches

633 From Necessity to Flexibility: A Reflection on the Negotiations for a TRIPS Waiver for Covid-19 Vaccines and Treatments
Bryan Mercurio and Pratyush Nath Upreti

Book Reviews

Ronald Steenblik

Iryna Polovets