ISLAM AND THE WEST
BERNARD LEWIS

"Brilliant.... In a collection of remarkable learning and range, Mr. Lewis takes us, as he alone among today’s historians and interpreters of Islam can, from the early encounters of Christendom and Islam to today’s Islamic dilemmas. To read Mr. Lewis... is to be taken through a treacherous terrain by the coolest and most reassuring of guides. You are in the hands of the Islamic world’s foremost living historian”—Fouad Ajami, Wall Street Journal. “Everywhere in this book Mr. Lewis’s commanding achievement is evident—his great learning, his deep knowledge of Arabic philology, his masterly acquaintance with the history and culture of the Middle East, and his intimate familiarity with the relations of East and West”—Ira M. Lapidus, The New York Times Book Review. $25.00, 217 pp.

THE ARABS IN HISTORY
Sixth Edition
BERNARD LEWIS

Praise for previous editions: “Lewis has admirably achieved his object, notably bringing out broad economic trends.”—International Affairs. “Clear, fascinating and valuable.”—The Guardian. “Stimulating....The continuous regard paid to the development of trade and economy deserves particular praise.”—History. Now brought completely up to date, this classic study by one of the world’s premier historians of the Middle East considers the achievement of the Arab peoples and their place in world history, from pre-Islamic times to the present-day. paper $11.95, 256 pp.

THE ISLAMIC THREAT: Myth or Reality?
JOHN L. ESPOSITO

“Esposito has written a discerning and knowing book on a subject that has been the stuff of caricature and guess-work. It is a subtle book on the relation between Islam and political power. Judicious, careful, and written with verve and conviction.”—Fouad Ajami, The Johns Hopkins University. “A compelling book. Drawing on his intimate knowledge of the Muslim World, Esposito shatters the myth of a monolithic Islamic fundamentalism and warns against moving from our obsession with the Cold War to a fear of a global Islamic threat.”—Yvonne Haddad, University of Michigan. paper $9.95, 272 pp.

The Imperial Harem
Women and Sovereignty in the Ottoman Empire
LESLIE P. PEIRCE, Cornell University
This book examines the sources of royal women’s power in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and assesses the reactions of contemporaries, which ranged from loyal devotion to armed opposition. By examining political action in the context of households, Leslie Peirce demonstrates that female power was a logical and intended consequence of political structures.

Israel’s Border Wars, 1949-1956
Arab Infiltration, Israeli Retaliation, and the Countdown to the Suez War
BENNY MORRIS, Hebrew University of Jerusalem
This book looks at the development of Israeli-Arab relations from 1949 to 1956, focusing on Arab infiltration into Israel and Israeli retaliation. Benny Morris probes the types of Arab infiltration and the attitude of Arab governments towards the phenomenon, and traces the evolution of Israel’s defensive and offensive responses. This pioneering study serves to deepen our understanding of the current situation in the Middle East and of the prospects for a lasting peace there.

The Arab Minority in Israel, 1967-1991
Political Aspects
JACOB M. LANDAU, Hebrew University of Jerusalem
This original study focuses on the growing politicization and radicalization of the Arab minority within Israel—excluding the Israeli-administered territories—from 1967 to the present. Examining trends among the general Arab population in Israel, Landau looks specifically at political behavior and struggles, organizations, problems of identity, electoral trends, education, and language.

The Making of Saudi Arabia, 1916-1936
From Chieftancy to Monarchical State
JOSEPH KOSTINER, The Moshe Dayan Center, Tel-Aviv University
This study analyzes the evolution of Saudi Arabia’s main state attributes: its territorial hub and borders, central government, and basic social and regional cohesion. Kostiner explains the historical dynamics of the relations among tribal groups, rulers, and British authorities in the Arabian Peninsula, and the changing nature of local political and social institutions.

"Fanatic," "dogmatic," "fundamentalist"—these are the words most often used in the West to describe the Ayatollah Khomeini. Abrahamian challenges that view, arguing this Islamic movement should be seen as a form of Third World political populism—a radical but pragmatic middle-class movement that strives to enter the modern age.

Bulliet's revisionist account of the historical evolution of Islamic society breaks new ground by going beyond the caliph and the capital.

In assessing the historical evolution of Islamic society, Bulliet abandons the historian's typical habit of viewing Islamic history "from the center," that is, focusing on the rise and fall of imperial dynasties. Instead, he examines the question of how and why Islam became—and continues to be—so rooted in the social structure of the vast majority of people who lived far from the political center and did not see the caliphate as essential in their lives.

Focusing his research on Iran, and especially the cities of Isfahan, Gorgan, and Nishapur, Bulliet brings forward a new and fuller consideration of conversion; migration and demographic trends; education and its role in defining cultural norms; the changing functions and fortunes of cities and urban life; and the roots and meaning of religious authority.

"A perceptive, original, imaginative, thought-provoking, and well-written book, which builds upon and brings to a new interpretive level Bulliet's earlier scholarship in medieval Islamic history."

—Wadad Kadi, University of Chicago

"Full of insights....In many respects Bulliet's best book yet."

—Lawrence I. Conrad, Wellcome Institute, London

Contributions and Editorial Correspondence

Send article submissions to the Editorial Office (address on inside front cover). Articles submitted to the journal should not be, or have been, submitted elsewhere. Books for review should also be sent to the Editor for forwarding to the Book Review Editors. Unsolicited book reviews cannot be accepted for publication.

Manuscript Preparation and Style

General. An article must be in English, should not exceed 40 typewritten pages (including main text, notes, tables, and figure captions), and should be typed on 8½" × 11" or A4 white bond paper with ample margins on all sides. The entire manuscript—including notes, tables, and references—must be typed double-spaced and numbered consecutively. Title and author's name should be centered at the top of the first text page. Institutional affiliation and location should appear at the bottom of the last text page. The Editor may find it necessary to return manuscripts for reworking or retyping that do not conform to these requirements.

Text. Use a 5-character paragraph indent. Avoid hyphenating words at the end of lines. Do not use desk-top publishing features (e.g., right margin justification or bold and italic typefaces). Block indent long quotations (more than 50 words). Never cross-reference.

Endnotes and References. Notes must be numbered consecutively throughout the text, typed double-spaced in paragraph style, and grouped together as a unit following the text. Footnotes at the bottom of the text page are not permitted. Any acknowledgment of grant support, substantial assistance, etc., should be typed as an Author's Note above the first note. Provide the full name of the author as it appears on the publication. All titles in non-Roman alphabets (Arabic, Persian, and Ottoman Turkish) should be capitalized as they would be in that particular language. An English translation of nonstandard language titles should be provided in parentheses after the title. The style of note citations should conform with the following examples:

When references to the same work follow without interruption use ibid. When notes to the same work follow after interruption, use the author's last name and a shortened title of the book or article. Do not use op. cit.: 6Shaw, History of Ottoman Empire, 2:6.

As a less-preferred alternative, authors may use the social science method of citation. In the text, cite author and year in parentheses. In the reference section, provide the full citation, author's full name, title, city of publication, publisher, and year. IJMES does not publish bibliographies.

Foreign Words and Transliteration. All Arabic words found in an unabridged dictionary (e.g., ulema, sheikh, qadi, Sunni, Shi'i, mihrab, mimbar, madrasa, masjid, jamii', hadith, suq) should be treated as English words, that is, not underlined and without diacriticals. Contemporary names and places should be spelled as they are found in such standard publications as the New York Times. All other transliterated words and phrases should be underlined and all their diacriticals included throughout the text. Be sure to distinguish between the hamza, ّ, and the apostrophe in the text. No diacritical marks other than the hamza and the ayn should appear in any proper names (e.g., names of people, dynasties, places) and names of well-known literary works (Qur'an, Shah-name), except: works written in Arabic, Persian, and Ottoman Turkish and cited in transliteration in the notes must include diacriticals for both author and title.

Transliteration System. All non-Roman alphabets must be transliterated, and authors are responsible for the consistency and accuracy of their transliterations. For Arabic and Persian, IJMES uses the modified Encyclopaedia of Islam system: qof = q not k; jinm = j not dj; roman double-letter equivalents are not underlined; the i of af- is not assimilated to the following consonant; ta marbuta is rendered a not ah; the adjective ya follows by ta marbuta is rendered -iya. Except at the beginning of an English sentence or endnote, only proper names are capitalized. For Ottoman Turkish, use either the Encyclopaedia of Islam system or modern Turkish orthography. For treatment of common Turkish words, such as medrese, turbe, etc., follow the rules on anglicizing Arabic and Persian words.

Dates. IJMES does not use double dating. Use common era (a.d.) dates only, unless quoting from an original source, in which case use the date as quoted (hijra, solar, etc.) with the common-era equivalent in parentheses.

Tables and Figures. Tables and figures must be cited in the text, e.g., (see Table 1). They should be numbered consecutively in Arabic numbers, captioned, and appear as a unit following the notes section. They cannot be interspersed in the text. Diagrams must be professionally rendered or computer generated; details should be large enough to remain legible at 50% reduction. Below-standard artwork will be returned to the author for replacement. All artwork must be numbered and labeled with the author's name and article title. For half-tones or other illustrations, consult the editor.

Publishing Information

Production. The publisher reserves the right to copyedit manuscripts to conform to the journal's style, which follows the rules found in the Chicago Manual of Style. Spelling will be edited to conform to American usage. More substantial editing will be returned to the author for approval before publication.

The lead author will receive one set of proofs for the correction of typographical or factual errors only. No rewriting will be allowed in the proof stage. Authors must return the material to the editorial office within 48 hours of receipt or approval will be assumed.

Offprints. The lead author of an article (but not book-review) will receive 50 free offprints of the article. Additional offprints may be purchased if ordered at the proof stage. Orders received after the issue is printed are subject to a 50% reprint surcharge.

Copyright and Originality. Submission of an article implies that it has not been simultaneously submitted or previously published elsewhere. Authors are responsible for obtaining permission to publish any material under copyright. Contributors will be asked to assign their own copyright, in certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press.
