International Theory

A Journal of International Politics, Law and Philosophy

journals.cambridge.org/int

Editors

Duncan Snidal, University of Chicago
Alexander Wendt, The Ohio State University

Launching in 2009, International Theory invites papers on theory of all varieties and from all disciplines, provided it addresses problems of politics, broadly defined and relates to the international.

International Theory welcomes scholarship that uses evidence from the real world to advance theoretical arguments. However, it is intended as a forum where scholars can develop theoretical arguments in depth without an expectation of extensive empirical analysis.

Full instructions for contributors can be found here: journals.cambridge.org/int/ifc

The Struggle to Create
Post-Cold War Europe

Mary Elise Sarotte

“Sarotte has written a major book about one of the most important events at the end of the Cold War—the international negotiations which culminated in the unification of Germany. Notably, she has managed to get access to primary sources that would be the dream of any historian. She vividly describes the efforts of powerful individuals to create order out of fast-moving and chaotic circumstances. This is a terrific book.”

A Cosmopolitanism of Nations

Giuseppe Mazzini's Writings on Democracy,
Nation Building, and International Relations

Giuseppe Mazzini

*Edited and with an introduction
by Stefano Recchia & Nadia Urbinati*

“This is a very valuable collection that nicely balances Mazzini's high-principled appeals and his everyday work as a political leader and as a propagandist for his cause outside Italy. The combination of his well-known and more obscure works offers an excellent overview, and the fine and reflective introduction provides an up-to-date perspective on Mazzini. This will be an important volume for students and scholars alike.”

Protection by Persuasion
International Cooperation in the Refugee Regime
ALEXANDER BETTS

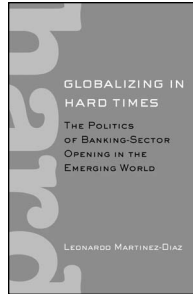

“Betts successfully argues that the international politics of refugee protection are shaped by an impasse between developing states in the South, where most refugees first seek asylum, and the developed states in the North.”

Security in the West
Evolution of a Concept
EDITED BY GIAMPIERO GIACOMELLO AND
R. CRAIG NATION

The contributors to Security in the West address how Western conceptions of security have developed and changed since the end of the Cold War, the nature of new security challenges and their implications for the West, and the direction in which evolving concepts of security will lead the West and the entire global community.

Globalizing in Hard Times
The Politics of Banking-Sector Opening in the Emerging World
LEONARDO MARTINEZ-DIAZ

“Letting foreigners take over a nation’s banking system is fraught politics. Simply, it cedes control over a country’s financial pipeline. In Globalizing in Hard Times, Leonardo Martinez-Diaz explains how and why foreigners were let in.”

—Ngaire Woods, author of The Globalizers

Federations
The Political Dynamics of Cooperation
CHAD RECTOR

“This book represents an important new and distinctive voice in the burgeoning literature on federalism’s origins. Deploying a powerfully parsimonious theory to explain why states federate rather than form international alliances or organizations, Rector’s careful case analysis places federalism firmly on the agenda of International Relations scholarship.”
