The Urban Crucible

Social Change, Political Consciousness, and the Origins of the American Revolution

Gary B. Nash

In this bold interpretation of colonial life and the origins of the American Revolution through a century-long history of three seaport towns—Boston, New York, and Philadelphia—Nash discovers subtle changes in social and political awareness and relates them ultimately to revolution. This work changes the contours of colonial and revolutionary history. $18.50

Roots of Modern Mormonism

Mark P. Leone

Applying the tools of anthropology, Leone discovers how an outcast utopia of the 19th century achieved worldwide success in the 20th. Diaries, native histories, judicial records, and correspondences vividly portray Mormon life and history. $15.00

Utopian Thought in the Western World

Frank E. Manuel and Fritzie P. Manuel

This magisterial work is at once a panorama of utopian thought and an adventure in ideas. Ranging over centuries, the history it unfolds is primarily the story of individuals: thinkers or dreamers who have envisioned an ideal social order and described it persuasively. Belknap

Chicanos in a Changing Society

From Mexican Pueblos to American Barrios in Santa Barbara and Southern California, 1848–1930

Albert Camarillo

Camarillo provides a thorough analysis of the historical roots of the socioeconomic and political status of the Chicanos who inhabit cities in southern California. This richly detailed book is a major contribution to ethnic history and urban social history. $17.50

Crime and Conflict in English Communities, 1300–1348

Barbara A. Hanawalt

Hanawalt investigates village and judicial records of over 20,000 criminal court cases as well as coroners' and manorial court rolls in her insightful account of crime and conflict in Medieval England. The author's analysis of these data produce striking results; one interesting finding explodes the Robin Hood myth. $20.00

States of Belonging

German-American Intellectuals and the First World War

Phyllis Keller

Keller explores the conflicting loyalties and allegiances of three German-American intellectuals—Hugo Münsterberg, George Sylvester Viereck, and Hermann Hagedorn—during World War I. She sensitively demonstrates how their political choices stemmed from complex psychological, cultural, and intellectual sources. This book contributes to our understanding of the formation of national identity, to American cultural history, and to the history of German-Americans. $17.50

Malthus

William Petersen

"The best exposition of Malthus to be found anywhere."—Robert Nisbet

This book offers the first full and accurate exposition of Malthus's thought, integrating his famous population theory with his ideas on economic development and social structure. $17.50

Violent Death in the City

Suicide, Accident, and Murder in Nineteenth-Century Philadelphia

Roger Lane

Lane uses statistics on violent death in Philadelphia from 1839 to 1901 to study the behavior of the living. Extensive research into murder, suicide, and accident rates—along with a computerized study of every homicide indictment during 62 years—provides the foundation for his theories. This is a significant new work in social, urban, and medical history. Commonwealth Fund $16.50

A Generation of Women

Education in the Lives of Progressive Reformers

Ellen Condliffe Lagemann

"Each of these gracefully written educational biographies is a significant contribution to our understanding of female reformers in the Progressive Era. Together they reveal new patterns in the life choices and accomplishments of this generation of 'social feminists.'"—Kathryn Kish Sklar $12.50

LA CHICANA

The Mexican-American Woman

Alfredo Mirandé and Evangelina Enríquez

Very little is known about the contributions or the history of Chicanas. They experience multiple forms of oppression as women, as members of a colonized group, and as members of a culture perceived to be dominated by males. La Chicana offers a definitive study of this long neglected group.

THE ONE AND THE MANY

Reflections on the American Identity

Arthur Mann

Mann constructs a paradigm for the development of group affiliation in the United States, at the same time that he shows how the country's definition of itself has left room for ethnic loyalty.

A RUSSIAN LOOKS AT AMERICA

The Journey of Aleksandr Borisovich Lakier in 1857

Translated from the Russian and edited by Arnold Schrier and Joyce Story

With a Foreword by Henry Steele Commager

Lakier, a liberal lawyer-bureaucrat from the ranks of the Russian provincial gentry, traveled to America in 1857, at a time when few Russians ever visited this country. This account of his trip is as richly revealing about Russia as it is about America.

PAST AND PRESENT

a journal of historical studies

Past and Present appears in February, May, August and November. It aims to publish a wide variety of scholarly and original historical articles primarily concerned with social, economic and cultural changes, and their causes and consequences.

Past and Present has a very well-established reputation. The French journal Annales has referred to it as "la plus grande revue d'histoire du monde anglophone." A review in the Times Higher Educational Supplement stated that "No historical periodical has done more than Past and Present to influence the study and teaching of history in British universities. . . . It has proved extremely fertile in new interpretations, ideas and controversies. . . . What makes Past and Present so invigorating is that it encourages historians to extend their horizons and ask new questions."

Recent important articles have included the following:

Robert Brenner, "Agrarian Class Structure and Economic Development in Pre-Industrial Europe" (no. 70, Feb. 1976)

Symposium on the article by Robert Brenner, with contributions by M. M. Postan and John Hatcher, Patricia Croot and David Parker, Heide Wunder, Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie, Guy Bois, and R.H. Hilton (nos. 78-80, Feb.-Aug. 1978)

J.P. Cooper, "In Search of Agrarian Capitalism" (no. 80, Aug. 1978)

Howard Temperley, "Capitalism, Slavery and Ideology" (no. 75, May 1977)

W.D. Rubinstein, "Wealth, Elites and the Class Structure of Modern Britain" (no. 76, Aug. 1977)

J.D.Y. Peel, "Conversion and Tradition in Two African Societies: Ijebu and Buganda" (no. 77, Nov. 1977)

John Torrance, "Social Class and Bureaucratic Innovation: The Commissioners for Examining the Public Accounts 1780-1787" (no. 78, Feb. 1978)

Allan Sharlin, "Natural Decrease in Early Modern Cities: A Reconsideration" (no. 79, May 1978)

Charles van Onselen, "'The Regiment of the Hills': South Africa's Lumpenproletarian Army 1890-1920" (no. 80, Aug. 1978)

James C. McClelland, "Proletarianizing the Student Body: The Soviet Experience during the New Economic Policy" (no. 80, Aug. 1978)

The central concern of Theory and Society is social theory developed by rigorous scholarship and research. In addition, attention is directed toward two subsidiary concerns, (1) the interface between theory and politics and (2) cultural criticism. The journal has recently broadened its focus to include more work centered on an historically informed understanding of everyday life. Theory and Society is of particular interest to, and a voice for, those new types of social scientists who are moving beyond sterile specializations and narrow "professionalism" toward wider syntheses.

Some recent articles:

Media Sociology (Todd Gitlin). The New Class Project (Alvin W. Gouldner). Besieging Lasch (Adrienne Harris and Edward Shorter). The Origins of English Individualism (Alan Macfarlane). Velikovskiy (Robert McAulay). State and Revolution (Theda Skocpol). Analyzing the Welfare State (Alan Wolfe). Problems of Social Class under Socialism (Sharon Zukin).

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalisations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, Department of History, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.

Contributors will receive 50 offprints. Any additional offprints must be ordered on receipt of the first proof.

Claims for missing issues will be considered only if made immediately upon receipt of the subsequent issue.
