POLITICAL EQUILIBRIUM: A CONFERENCE IN HONOR OF WILLIAM H. RIKER Tues., August 27

The colleagues and students of William H. Riker have organized a one-day conference just prior to the Annual Meeting on the concept of political equilibrium to be held at the Washington Hilton on August 27, 1980. Papers on and discussions of alternative views of equilibrium will constitute the morning session, with papers by Morris Fiorina and Kenneth Shepsle, Gerald Kramer, and John Aldrich and David Rohde, and discussant comments by Theodore Bluhm and John Ferejohn. The afternoon session will focus on equilibrium analysis of politics with papers by Richard McKelvey and Peter Ordeshook, Peter Aranson, Richard Niemi and Arthur Frank, Melvin Hinich, and Steven Brams and Philip Straffin, and discussion by Arthur Goldberg and Richard Rosett. A luncheon will also be held with some luncheon remarks by Richard Fenno.

Program Information

FORMAT: In each short course the course director meets with 25 college teachers for a total of four days—two days in the fall and two days in the spring. Between the fall and the spring session participants work on projects related to the course. The interim projects provide them with a structure for incorporating new knowledge, concepts, or techniques in their teaching with minimum delay.

ELIGIBILITY: In general, the courses are open to undergraduate teachers of the natural and social sciences, mathematics, and engineering, at both two-year and four-year institutions. In some interdisciplinary courses a limited number of teachers from other disciplines may be admitted.

SUPPORT: The National Science Foundation provides overall support, including lodging on a double occupancy basis for participants. Course directors have available an allowance of $15 per participant for the purchase or preparation of instructional materials. Participants or their institutions bear the costs of transportation, meals, and incidental expenses.
