Watershed in India 1914–1922
SIR ALGERNON RUMBOLD
Sir Algernon Rumbold, who served in the India Office from 1929–47, here considers the years between 1914 and 1922 as those in which the fate of Britain’s Indian Empire was settled. He traces the effect on British policy of the First World War, Montagu’s statement of August 1917, the introduction of dyarchy and Gandhi’s non-cooperation movement. These events are described with the aid of the documents of the time and in the light of the philosophies then prevalent.

INDIA
Resources and Development
B.L.C. Johnson
Based on research done during 1976, this superbly illustrated book will serve as a comprehensive introduction to the human and physical geography of modern India. It deals with the limited resources of the country and the nation’s achievements in developing them.

The book is roughly divided into four parts covering population in its cultural and demographic aspects, agriculture, industry and urbanization, and historical, social and economic development.

Contemporary problems such as population growth, food supplies and industrialization are discussed with a keen regard to the future progression of the country.

The Study of Chinese Society

Essays by Maurice Freedman

Selected and Introduced by G. William Skinner. Twenty-four major essays by the late Maurice Freedman, a brilliant scholar and teacher who profoundly affected the course of anthropological research into Chinese society. Parts 1 and 2 contain his pioneering papers on the Chinese in Singapore and other areas of Southeast Asia, papers that played an important part in attracting anthropologists to the overseas Chinese as a field of study. His three main papers on Hong Kong, which constitute Part 3, showed social scientists what could be learned from observation in "residual China." Part 4 gives us Freedman at his best: eight elegant efforts to reconstruct the religious and kinship patterns of traditional China by a judicious comparison of recent fieldwork and the written record. Part 5 consists of essays on the challenges and problems that Chinese society presents for social anthropologists. $28.50

Old Madam Yin

A Memoir of Peking Life

Ida Pruitt. By the author of the classic A Daughter of Han, this is an affectionate, revealing portrait of an aged, wealthy widow and her family in the Peking of the 1920's and early 1930's. Through the daily life and memories of Lao Tai-tai, it gives an intimate glimpse into a centuries-old way of life that was fast coming to an end. We explore the inner workings of an upper-class urban family: the relations between husbands and wives and between wives and concubines, the interactions among brothers, the role of women in such a family. We learn how houses, gardens, and courtyards are constructed according to precise rules. We are shown the enormous importance to the Chinese of protocol, etiquette, and reciprocal obligation. Above all, the memoir captures the essence of pre-war Chinese cultural and social values. Illustrated. August. About $10.00
Modern Asian Studies is concerned with the history, geography, politics, sociology, literature, economics and social anthropology of South Asia, South-East Asia, China and Japan.

Contributions should be based on original research or field-work. They should be between 2000 and 8000 words long. Two typed copies should be submitted. Each author will receive twenty-five free offprints of his article and a copy of the Journal in which it appears.

Submission of an article will be taken to imply that it has not been previously published and that it is not on offer to any other publisher. In the interests of authors, copyright is normally assigned to Cambridge University Press. The editor welcomes expression of all shades of opinion, but responsibility for them rests with their authors.

All correspondence should be addressed to Dr Gordon Johnson, Selwyn College, Cambridge CB3 9DQ, England.
