

Cambridge ELT

English Phonetics and Phonology

Peter Roach

This is a complete basic course in English phonetics and phonology intended for both native and non-native speakers who may be training to teach English, and for those who are studying the language at university level.

- * bridges the gap between simple pronunciation handbooks and detailed, technical textbooks
- * presents in twenty chapters the basic factual information and the crucial theoretical issues in a concise, practical and very readable way. The course progresses from a discussion of the individual sounds of English (segmental aspects) through to analysis of connected speech (suprasegmental aspects)
- * provides practical exercises on cassette which are cross-referenced in the Student's Book
- * includes a Tutor's Book which provides extra information and guidance for the course organiser and can also be used by the student working alone

Student's Book about £3.95

Tutor's Book about £4.50

Publication May

2 cassettes about £5.50 each + VAT

Available from all leading ELT booksellers or, in case of difficulty, direct from Cambridge University Press.

If you live in the USA, order from Cambridge University Press, 32 East 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10022. In Canada, order from Centre Educatif et Culturel, 8101 Boul. Métropolitain, Montréal, Quebec H1J 1JP.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

The Edinburgh Building, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge CB2 2RU, England

Language Teaching

The international abstracting journal for language teachers and applied linguists

Language Teaching and Linguistics: Abstracts is changing its name from 1982 to Language Teaching to emphasise its function as an indispensable tool for everyone concerned with the teaching and learning of foreign languages. It will maintain the following important features which have made it such a popular publication:

- * articles from nearly 400 journals from all parts of the world are selected and abstracted by experts
- * it offers comprehensive cover of the field for its readers in a compact and inexpensive form so that practising teachers, teacher trainers, applied linguists, students, research workers, writers and educational administrators can keep up to date with a minimum expenditure of time and money
- * it encourages cross-fertilisation of ideas between those concerned with the teaching of different foreign languages (e.g. French, English, German) as well as between practising teachers, applied linguists and educational researchers
- * it makes international experience published in many languages accessible to an English-reading audience
- * information about good practice in classroom teaching and effective language learning as well as the latest research findings
- * sources of further information for in-depth study in the form of bibliographies on particular topics and annotations of recent publications
- * details of research projects in various countries

Published Quarterly

Changes from 1983 include:

- * 20% greater coverage
- * greater emphasis on teaching methods and materials
- * as a special feature, a state-of-the-art survey article on a major subject in language teaching in every issue
- * subject and author indexes in every issue
- * full list of periodicals scanned in every January issue

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

The Pitt Building, Trumpington Street, Cambridge CB2 1RP
32 East 57th Street, New York, NY 10022

Printed in Great Britain at the University Press Cambridge