LIONEL TRILLING says:
"Few works that I know convey the excitement of the intellectual life of nineteenth-century England as immediately as Gertrude Himmelfarb’s Victorian Minds. The essays are remarkable no less for the cogency of their wit than for the range and precision of their scholarship."

ELIZABETH THE FIRST QUEEN OF ENGLAND
by Neville Williams

“Every fine quality of this book commands it to public and academic libraries.”
—Library Journal

“Lively with quotations and full of stray pleasures.”—The Times (London)

Based almost exclusively on contemporary sources, Neville Williams’ portrait of England’s greatest monarch will be the definitive work on this complex queen for decades. With more frankness than was ever before possible, he reveals all that was lusty and lewd, turbulent and clandestine, brilliant and cruel in Elizabeth’s England and in her remarkable forty-four-year reign. Mr. Williams’ unique perception unveils the violent clashes between the woman and the sovereign and has created a vibrant portrait—which is immensely scholarly and immensely fascinating. With a bibliography of the 100 best books on Elizabeth. Illustrated

Man versus Society in Eighteenth-Century Britain

Edited by JAMES L. CLIFFORD

Six experts give their points of view on the lot of the ordinary individual in eighteenth-century Britain. These papers were presented at a symposium sponsored by the Conference on British Studies at the University of Delaware and the Winterthur Museum.

J. H. PLUMB on the relationship between the individual and the institutions by which he was governed.

JACOB VINER on the fate of 'the labouring poor' at the hands of the state.

G. R. CRAGG on the social and political role of the clergyman.

RUDOLF WITTKOWER on the artist's struggle to improve his social status.

PAUL HENRY LANG on circumstances that favoured and impeded the efforts of the composer.

BERTRAND H. BRONSON on the relationship of the author with his readers.

JAMES L. CLIFFORD summarises the discussions that followed and suggests some general conclusions. $6.50

An Expanding Society: Britain 1830-1900
G. S. R. KITSON CLARK

Describes the expansion and structural change of British society under the impact of the population explosion, the industrial revolution, and the 'liberal revolution'.

Dr Kitson Clark analyses the origins of the problem of imperialism and the fortunes of liberalism in Great Britain. He discusses the intellectual and spiritual life stimulated by the forces of expansion, and the increase of the regulative powers and responsibilities of the state.

The Conscience of the State in North America
E. R. NORMAN

This book challenges the generally accepted view that Great Britain, Canada and the United States are dissimilar in one important aspect of their histories: the relations between church and state.

Dr Norman traces the movements towards the formal separation of church and state since the mid-eighteenth century and shows that the redefinition of their relationships has followed an essentially similar, though independent and chronologically uneven course in all three countries. (Cambridge Studies in the History and Theory of Politics, No. 3.)

A Highland Parish in the Nineteenth Century
PHILIP GASKELL

A study of the social and economic upheavals that transformed a remote district of the Scottish Highlands during the nineteenth century. The landowners, far from being villains, are shown to have dug deep in their pockets to help reconstruct the wrecked society.

Among documents quoted is a diary kept by two mid-Victorian girls during their visits to a sporting estate. Illustrated with photographs.

Spenser's Images of Life
C. S. LEWIS
Edited by ALASTAIR FOWLER
The late C. S. Lewis gave a course of lectures on Spenser at Cambridge, intending to turn the material into a book.

From Lewis's notes Dr Fowler has reconstructed his whole argument in this original and learned work of literary criticism. Two plates reproduce pages of Lewis's manuscript. $3.95

Destiny His Choice
The Loyalism of Andrew Marvell
JOHN M. WALLACE
Professor Wallace of the University of Chicago explains the meaning of Marvell's political poems and prose by setting the work in its immediate historical and political context.

The originality of Professor Wallace's approach lies in treating Marvell as a member of that central group of moderate men who were neither wholly royalist nor wholly puritan. He provides new information about the extent of this group and Marvell's place in it. $7.50

The Dramatist and the Received Idea
Studies in the Plays of Marlowe and Shakespeare
WILBUR SANDERS
Through a critical account of seven plays in which 'cultural background' influenced the dramatists' creative activity, the author evaluates the relevance of 'background' material to the study of literature. He shows how works of art can be of their age and yet valid for all time.

The plays are The Massacre at Paris, The Jew of Malta, Edward II, Dr Faustus, Richard II, Richard III and Macbeth. $9.50

Henry VIII

J. J. Scarisbrick

The late Victorian view of Henry VIII was that of a great Renaissance king, the Humanist Harry. In this revisionist study, Mr. Scarisbrick gives us a picture of a seriously immature, petulant, Manic-depressive and always self-righteous man at odds with his greatest ministers, his many wives, himself, and with appreciable segments of his people. A man not subtle but rather clever; a man incapable of real gratitude; a man carried along by impulses into actions which he would later regret. Much more than a biography, this work provides new answers to major questions of early Tudor history while offering new insights into major personalities of Henry’s reign such as Cardinal Wolsey and Thomas Cromwell. A volume in the English Monarchs Series. A History Book Club Selection.

John Rogers

Tudor Military Engineer

By LON R. SHELBY, Southern Illinois University. John Rogers, one of the foremost English military engineers of his time, served Henry VIII, Edward VI, and Mary as surveyor of works at Hull, Boulogne, and Calais. His career came at a turning point in the history of English military engineering, during the 1540s. Although the actual fortifications have disappeared, numerous contemporary drawings produced by Rogers are extant, and from these one can estimate his significance not only as a military engineer but also as an architectural and topographical draftsman. 3 text figures, 29 plates. $13.45

Thomas Kyd

Facts and Problems

By ARTHUR FREEMAN, Boston University. This biographical and critical study provides a broad basis for the study of Kyd's work, which has been hitherto unavailable in English. It treats Kyd's life, literary career, and the complicated events surrounding his imprisonment and death; his masterpiece, The Spanish Tragedy, and his translations, lost works, and apocrypha. The approach is scholarly in matters of determining facts, but an attempt has also been made to assess the playwright's achievement, believed by many to rank with that of Marlowe. $6.75

The Collected Works

of Jeremy Bentham

The Correspondence, Volumes I and II: 1752-80

Edited by TIMOTHY L. S. SPRIGGE. These two volumes are the first of a definitive edition of the works and correspondence of Jeremy Bentham, a major figure in the history of ideas, law and social policy in nineteenth-century England. Nearly four hundred letters, the majority now printed for the first time, reveal in detail the formative years of an idiosyncratic genius. An intensely personal family correspondence is presented, and all phases in Bentham's growth are recorded against a rich and varied background. These letters also offer an intimate view of eighteenth-century England in which he grew to manhood. In two volumes. $26.90
Britain and Germany in Africa
Imperial Rivalry and Colonial Rule

edited by Prosser Gifford and Wm. Roger Louis

Spanning the period from the 1880s to 1939, the twenty-four essays in this volume point up the realities of imperial ambition and colonial rule that supervened to shape the foundations of the African states of our day. The volume as a whole probes in more detail than any prior study the period in Africa’s history when the European powers were most aggressive, influential, and damaging.

William Edmondstoune Aytoun
and the Spasmodic Controversy

by Mark A. Weinstein

Though the Spasmodic Movement was a relatively short-lived phase in the development of Victorian literature, it influenced almost every major writer of the 1840s and 50s. Mr. Weinstein provides the first full-scale study of the career of the poet and critic who destroyed the Movement with a burlesque review in Blackwood’s of a fictitious poem called Firmilian and with a satiric text of the poem itself.

Russia and Britain in Persia, 1864-1914
A Study in Imperialism

by Firuz Kazemzadeh

During the half century preceding World War I the interests of Russia and Britain clashed at many points from Turkey to China, but only in Persia and Central Asia did the imperialist giants meet face to face. Firuz Kazemzadeh describes that confrontation in an account exhaustively documented from official records. He draws a complete picture of the methods by which policies toward Persia were formulated both in London and St. Petersburg, and he describes the steps taken to implement these policies.

Ivan Maisky

MEMOIRS OF A SOVIET AMBASSADOR

Suprisingly frank and revealing, this book sheds important new light on Soviet dealings and diplomacy during the early years of World War II. As Ambassador to Great Britain from 1932 to 1943, Ivan Maisky was a witness to many critical decisions and controversies. Here, he describes the events candidly and appraises the strengths and weaknesses of such key figures as Roosevelt, Churchill, Hopkins, and Eden. $6.95

DRAKE'S VOYAGES

An astute analysis of the rise of English marine power seen from the vantage point of the career of its most famous hero, Sir Francis Drake. This new biography is a vigorous account of Drake's activities, which ranged from exploration to privateering of Spanish vessels, and evaluation of his importance to the era of England's great maritime expansion. Maps. $4.50

Elizabeth Burton

THE PAGEANT OF GEORGIAN ENGLAND

Elizabeth Burton continues her panoramic social history of England with this third volume in her “Pageant” series. With lively humor and a wealth of fascinating detail, she touches on every aspect of the Georgian era, chronicling the great changes under the Hanovers, the rise of wealthy industrialists and entrepreneurs, and the everyday life of court and countryside. Illustrated by Felix Kelly. $5.95

Imanuel Geiss, Editor

JULY 1914

An illuminating collection of nearly 200 documents, extensively annotated, relating to the controversial question of Germany's responsibility for precipitating World War I. Dr. Geiss is a young German scholar who represents a growing body of opinion maintaining that war was a central facet of German policy in 1914, and that Germany must bear the responsibility for triggering World War I. $6.95

In Canada / Saunders of Toronto, Ltd.
The Journal of British Studies, founded in 1961, is published at Trinity College under the auspices of the Conference on British Studies. It was the result of the imaginative generosity of a Trinity alumnus, Frederick E. Hasler (Hon. LL.D. 1957) who contributed funds to the College for the specific purpose of establishing a learned periodical in the field of British history. Several Trinity alumni subsequently contributed to the fund and Trinity College now supports the publication of the Journal.

The Conference on British Studies is the official organization in the United States and Canada of scholars working in the field of British history and culture; its status as such is recognized by the American Historical Association of which it is an affiliate. Its nearly eight hundred members are drawn from forty-eight states and five provinces. It convenes twice each year at New York University, its permanent headquarters.

The Conference awards a prize triennially for the best first book by an American or Canadian scholar.

The Conference sponsors a considerable publications program. It publishes the Journal of British Studies at Trinity College; the British Studies Intelligencer, a newsletter, at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas; Studies in British History and Culture, an annual series of monographs, at the University of Bridgeport, Connecticut; Archives in British History and Culture, an annual series devoted to the publication of documents, at West Virginia University, Morgantown; and Current Research in British Studies, a quadrennial survey of research in progress in the United States and Canada, the next edition of which will appear in 1968 at Southern Methodist University. The Conference has begun a new series, to be published by the Cambridge University Press, of biographical and historical studies of men and women who were makers and shapers of the English experience.

In addition to the Conference on British Studies, there are three affiliates: the Pacific Coast Conference on British Studies, the Midwest Conference on British Studies, and the Southern Conference on British Studies. Each of these vital autonomous groups has its own officers, program, and other activities. There are also local groups centered in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Detroit, and Pittsburgh.

The Journal of British Studies appears twice in the academic year, in the autumn and in the spring. The annual subscription is $5.00. Checks for subscriptions and enquiries concerning advertising rates should be directed to the Business Manager, British Studies, Box 1315, Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, 06106.

Volume VIII, No. 1 will be published in November 1968.
The Conference on British Studies will award its fourth triennial prize of three hundred dollars in November, 1969. The prize will be given for the best book published between January 1, 1966 and December 31, 1968, by an American or Canadian scholar. It must be the author's first book. Its subject must lie either within the field of English History or Commonwealth History.

Enquiries and recommendations should be addressed to the Chairman, Professor Arthur B. Ferguson, Duke University, Durham, North Carolina.

The past recipients of the prize are: Philip P. Poirier, Ohio State University, 1960; C. Warren Hollister, University of California, 1963; Melvin Richter, Hunter College, 1966.
