

King Stephen

New

R. H. C. Davis. This is a life and history of the reign of King Stephen, grandson of William the Conqueror. Mr. Davis has used contemporary documents to clarify the events of a most confused era. He compensates for the deficiencies of the chronicles by studying in detail the more than 1,000 charters of King Stephen and his rivals, and a coherent and accurate picture of the times emerges.

The Elizabethan Puritan Movement

Patrick Collinson. The Elizabethan puritan movement arose from discontent with the religious settlement of 1559, and the desire among many of the clergy and laity for further reformation. Mr. Collinson implicates the nobility — including the Earl of Leicester — the country gentry, London citizens, and above all the godly energetic preachers and a genius of conspiracy, John Field. The book demonstrates for the first time both the gravity and the extent of the movement.

Whig Organization in the General Election of 1790

Selections from the Blair Adam Papers

Edited by Donald E. Ginter. The letters in this volume comprise correspondence to and from William Adam, political manager of Whig opposition in the general election of 1790. They indicate the scope and quality of Whig activity, revealing that Adam and the Duke of Portland were leading figures in party organization and funding of a number of candidates.

THE BENEVOLENT MAN

A Life of Ralph Allen of Bath
By BENJAMIN BOYCE

Ralph Allen of Bath (1693-1764), the original of "Squire Allworthy" in Fielding's Tom Jones, was a fine example of the benevolent man, the type of generous, amiable Christian gentleman often idealized in eighteenth-century prose. The first complete account of his many-faceted life provides, in addition, a history of Bath during its inception as a fashionable spa. $7.95

THE WILBERFORCES AND HENRY MANNING

The Parting of Friends
By DAVID NEWSOME

Samuel, Robert, and Henry Wilberforce, with their brother-in-law Henry Manning, are the central figures in this powerful narrative of religious conflict in early Victorian England. The author portrays the buoyant hopes of this influential circle before Newman's secession to Catholicism and its tragic dissolution in the years that followed. "Learned and brilliant study . . ."—The Sunday Times (London). Belknap Press. $12.00

THE LETTERS OF MRS GASKELL

Edited by J. A. V. CHAPPLE and A. POLLARD

THE OREGON QUESTION

Essays in Anglo-American Diplomacy and Politics
By FREDERICK MERK

In these essays, one of America's most distinguished historians traces the controversy extending from the War of 1812 to 1846 between the United States and Great Britain over the Oregon Country, and examines the six negotiations held at intervals over these years to settle the dispute. Four of the essays and an important introduction are published here for the first time. Belknap Press. $7.95

TRADE AND EMPIRE

The British Customs Service in Colonial America, 1660-1775
By THOMAS C. BARROW

Mr. Barrow presents the first analysis of the operation and organization of the colonial customs service from its inception in 1673 to its collapse in 1775. His study of the institution that was one of the chief causes of colonial discontent sheds new light on a pivotal era in Anglo-American history. $8.00

DELACORTE WORLD HISTORY SERIES...

A brilliant and unique interpretation of the entire history of modern colonialism
from its origins to its final days
in the postwar world

The Colonial Empires by the noted scholar, D. K. Fieldhouse is the first major examination of colonialism to place the subject in total perspective.

Unlike earlier studies which have dealt with the possessions of a single power, this book examines the strengths and weaknesses of every colonial system, and it answers the central questions—why colonies were acquired, how they were governed, and why they eventually disappeared.

Original in its concepts, exciting in its narrative, and impeccable in its scholarship, this book is a worthy introduction to the forthcoming thirty-five volume DELACORTE WORLD HISTORY.

English Historical Documents

Volume V: 1485-1588

*Edited by C. H. WILLIAMS,
Professor Emeritus, University of London*

This volume in the English Historical Documents series, which is under the general editorship of David C. Douglas, covers the years from the accession of Henry VII to the death of Mary. It illustrates the interconnection between the constitutional, ecclesiastical, and social movements which marked this critical period in England's history. Like the other volumes in the series, a comprehensive body of material relating to the period is presented, with editorial comment designed to make the material intelligible rather than to present a critical evaluation.

Following a general introduction there are sections, consisting of extensive contemporary documents, on: historical writings, impressions and descriptions of the countryside, the structure of society, the commonweal, leaders in society, government, administration, legal records, government theory, opinions on the King's Private Matter, religious controversies and doctrines, daily life in town and country, industry, economic conditions, and education. Each section is preceded by its own introduction.

Survey of London

Volumes XXXIII and XXXIV

THE PARISH OF ST. ANNE,
SOHO

General Editor, F. A. W. SHEPPARD

Scattered throughout London are many of the finest buildings in England: churches, royal palaces, noblemen's mansions, private houses and public buildings. Many of them are the work of great architects and some of them have close associations with the great men of the past. The purpose of the SURVEY OF LONDON is to provide a permanent record of all these buildings.

Starting with the first volume in 1900, there have been thirty-four volumes covering one-third of the old County of London. Each volume traces the history and describes the important buildings of a particular area, with numerous illustrations from photographs, prints, and measured drawings. The historical and architectural texts are the result of first-hand research and inspection. These two new volumes describe Soho, the most famous of London's cosmopolitan quarters. Many of the buildings covered have been destroyed, some of them a long time ago. $40.35

THE JOURNAL OF BRITISH STUDIES
TRINITY COLLEGE
HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT

The Journal of British Studies, founded in 1961, is published at Trinity College under the auspices of the Conference on British Studies. It was the result of the imaginative generosity of a Trinity alumnus, Frederick E. Hasler (Hon. LL.D. 1957) who contributed funds to the College for the specific purpose of establishing a learned periodical in the field of British history. Several Trinity alumni subsequently contributed to the fund and Trinity College now supports the publication of the Journal.

The Conference on British Studies is the official organization in the United States and Canada of scholars working in the field of British history and culture; its status as such is recognized by the American Historical Association of which it is an affiliate. Its nearly eight hundred members are drawn from forty-eight states and five provinces. It convenes twice each year at New York University, its permanent headquarters.

The Conference awards a prize triennially for the best first book by an American or Canadian scholar.

The Conference sponsors a considerable publications program. It publishes the Journal of British Studies at Trinity College; the British Studies Intelligencer, a newsletter, at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas; Studies in British History and Culture, an annual series of monographs, at the University of Bridgeport, Connecticut; Archives in British History and Culture, an annual series devoted to the publication of documents, at West Virginia University, Morgantown; and Current Research in British Studies, a quadrennial survey of research in progress in the United States and Canada, the next edition of which will appear in 1968 at Southern Methodist University. The Conference has undertaken to sponsor a series of bibliographical handbooks which will be published by the Cambridge University Press.

In addition to the Conference on British Studies, there are three affiliates: the Pacific Coast Conference on British Studies, the Midwest Conference on British Studies, and the Southern Conference on British Studies. Each of these vital autonomous groups has its own officers, program, and other activities. There are also local groups centered in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Detroit, and Pittsburgh.

The Journal of British Studies appears twice in the academic year, in the autumn and in the spring. The annual subscription is $5.00. Checks for subscriptions and enquiries concerning advertising rates should be directed to the Business Manager, British Studies, Box 1315, Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, 06106.

Volume VII, No. 1 will be published in November, 1967.

CONFERENCE ON BRITISH STUDIES PRIZE

The Conference on British Studies will award its fourth triennial prize of three hundred dollars in November, 1969. The prize will be given for the best book published between January 1, 1966 and December 31, 1968, by an American or Canadian scholar. It must be the author's first book. Its subject must lie either within the field of English History or Commonwealth History. The prize will be awarded by a panel of judges consisting of:

Arthur B. Ferguson, Duke University

John S. Galbraith, University of California

Thomas Peardon, Columbia University

Enquiries and recommendations should be addressed to the Chairman, Professor Arthur B. Ferguson, Duke University, Durham, North Carolina.

The past recipients of the prize are: Philip P. Poirier, Ohio State University, 1960; C. Warren Hollister, University of California, 1963; Melvin Richter, Hunter College, 1966.
