Illustrations

1 W. H. Reid, ‘Hum! Hum! A New Song’ [1793] © The British Library Board.  page 6
2 Daniel Isaac Eaton [A Circular, together with a prospectus of a series of political pamphlets.] © The British Library Board.  33
3 James Gillray, London-Corresponding-Society alarm’d: vide guilty consciences [1798]. Courtesy of the Lewis Walpole Library.  46
4 [Robert Thomson] A New song, to an old tune,-viz. “God save the king”. © The British Library Board.  80
5 Wonderful Exhibition!!! Signor Guelielmo Pittachio (1794). Trustees of the British Museum. All rights reserved.  126
6 Richard Newton, Soulagement en Prison, or Comfort in Prison. Lewis Walpole Library (1793). Courtesy of the Lewis Walpole Library.  139
7 Richard Newton, Promenade on the State Side of Newgate. (1793). Courtesy of the Huntington Library, San Marino, California.  140
8 Amusement for Starving Mechanics. For the benefit of the Tythe and Tax Club. Shortly will be performed, the comical tragedy of Long Faces, etc. [A squib.][1795?]. © The British Library Board.  159
9 King Killing. [A handbill, reprinted from one entitled ‘Tyrannicide.’] [London, 1797 [1795?]] © The British Library Board.  163
10 John Thelwall, Spies and Informers. On Wednesday, Feb. 5, 1794, J. Thelwall will begin a course of lectures on the most important branches of political morality, etc. [A posting bill.] © The British Library Board.  177
11 When the late dreadful accident, etc. [A handbill charging the king with callousness in regard to the accident at the Haymarket Theatre, 3 February 1794.] [London, 1794.] © The British Library Board.  179