Scope and contributions

International Psychogeriatrics is written by and for those doing clinical, translational, and transludic research with older people. It is the official journal of the International Psychogeriatric Association (IPA) and is published by Cambridge University Press, Cambridge, UK. Although it is primarily concerned with psychiatric, the journal welcomes contributions from all concerned with the field of mental health and aging.

Contributions include original research articles, case reports, reviews of the literature, book reviews, letters to the editor, and abstracts. The journal has a Language Assistance Panel consisting of four experts willing to check manuscripts for style prior to submission, and bilingual experts willing to assist with the translation of manuscripts into English. Further details including contact information for individual panel members can be found at both the journal and IPA websites (journal's Cambridge site and www.ipa-online.org). An up to date version of the journal's instructions for contributors can be found at the International Psychogeriatrics website (journal.cambridge.org). Please read these instructions carefully before submitting articles. Authors who are not native speakers should consult editors with whom they feel comfortable prior to submission.

For submissions, please visit the journal's editorial offices (<mailto:ipa@ipa-online.org>). Manuscripts should be submitted online via our manuscript submission system. Full instructions for contributors can be found at both the journal and IPA websites (<http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/ipg>).
