'Because of its broad scope and consistently high standards The British Journal of Social Work is the foremost British journal to which readers turn for analyses of research based practice, and in which researchers hope their work will be published.'

Julia Cheetham, Director of Social Work Research Centre, University of Stirling

Established as the pre-eminent academic journal of its kind in the UK, The British Journal of Social Work is the essential reading for all social work educators, researchers, practitioners, and managers who need to keep abreast of theoretical and empirical developments in the field.

Forthcoming articles include:

- Matthew Colton, Charlotte Drury, and Margaret Williams Children in need
- Bernard Gallagher, Sue Creighton, and Jane Gibbons Ethical dilemmas in social research
- Karen Lyons, Ivana la Valle, and Cordelia Grimwood Career patterns of qualified social workers
- Gayla Rogers Practice teaching for antidiscriminatory practice: a Canadian view
- Michael Sheppard Social work, social science, and practical wisdom
- Geoffrey Silavwe Casework in an African setting
- Neil Thompson Men and anti-sexism
- Vicky White Commonality and diversity in feminist social work

Each volume of The British Journal of Social Work includes a special issue on a topical theme; in 1995 this will be: Social Work in Europe and will include papers from France, Poland, Slovenia, Spain (Catalonia), and Sweden.

Founded in 1990 on the premise that contemporary British history was relatively ill-served by existing periodical literature, Twentieth Century British History has led the initiative to meet that need with its wide range of lively and provocative articles. Interdisciplinary in scope, the journal links the many different and specialized branches of historical scholarship with work in political science and related disciplines. The journal seeks to transcend traditional disciplinary boundaries, in order to foster the study of patterns of change across the twentieth century.

The editors are committed to publishing work within an international comparative context. Features of the journal include original articles by younger writers as well as by established scholars, major review articles, debates, archive surveys, and reviews of historical work in other media.

A special issue of Twentieth Century British History on the Labour Party will be published in 1995 (Volume 6, No 2).

Recent & Forthcoming articles include:

- Michael Freeden The Stranger at the Feast: Ideology and Public Policy in Twentieth-Century Britain
- Lord Gilmour The Thatcher Memoirs
- Brian Harrison Thatcherism and the Intellectuals
- David Jarvis Mrs Maggs and Betty: The Conservative Appeal to Women Voters in the 1920s
- Joseph McAleer Scenes from Love and Marriage: Mills and Boon and the Popular Publishing Industry in Britain, 1908-1950
- Richard Morgan The Introduction of Civil Legal Aid in England and Wales

Journal of Social Policy

Notes for Contributors

- 1. All contributions and correspondence should be sent to: The Editors, Journal of Social Policy, Legal, Political and Social Sciences, South Bank University, 103 Borough Road, London SE1 0AA. All books for review should be sent to: The Review Editor, Journal of Social Policy, School of Social Sciences, University of Bath, Bath BA2 7AY.
- 2. Articles should generally contain between 5,000 and 8,000 words including footnotes, although longer or shorter articles may be accepted by arrangement with the editors. Short articles stand a better chance of early publication.
- 3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere. If an author is publishing a related article elsewhere, this fact should be stated.
- 4. Contributions (articles, review articles, reviews) should be clearly typed on one side of the paper only using a conventional size of paper, preferably A4. All material should be typed double-spaced with generous margins. Contributors should send three copies and keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs. Following acceptance, contributors are strongly encouraged to submit their final revised version of the paper on computer disk (Apple Macintosh or IBM compatible PC) together with the hard copy typescript. giving details of the wordprocessing software used (Microsoft Word, Word or Word Perfect). Disks will not be returned. The publisher reserves the right to typeset any article by conventional means if the author's disk proves unsatisfactory.
- 5. Contributions should be accompanied by an abstract of between one and two hundred words, and a title page providing information about the position/s held by the author/s and giving full details of any acknowledgements.
- 6. Contributions should conform exactly to the Journal of Social Policy style and authors should check the format of their own contribution with that of a recent issue of the journal, paying particular attention to references and tables. Gender-neutral language should be used.
- 7. Notes should not contain bibliographical references: these should be built into the text and the Harvard (author/date) system used. Such notes as are essential should be referred to in numerical order throughout the text and the numbers shown as superscript. Notes and bibliographical references should be typed (double-spaced) as separate sections at the end of the article.
- 8. Tables should be clearly laid out and designed to fit on to a page 234 mm×155 mm. Vertical lines between columns should be omitted, and horizontal lines limited to the top and bottom of the table, with an additional one below the column headings. Totals and percentages should be labelled, and units identified.
- 9. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the editors an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the editors, by airmail where appropriate. within seven days of receiving them.
- 10. Authors of articles and review articles (but not book reviews) receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if ordered at proof stage.
- 11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material.

The Social Policy Association

The Social Policy Association supports the study of all aspects of Social Policy and Administration through the sponsorship of the Journal of Social Policy, the publication of a newsletter, the organisation of an annual conference and a small grants scheme. It represents its members through contact with a range of bodies, including the ESRC and the NCAA.
