Compact, accessible and affordable

Each chapter is sharp, clear and practical, enhanced by tables and diagrams for quick assimilation and reference on the ward or in the clinic.

Coverage also includes legal and ethical issues, and the neglected topic of alcohol and drug abuse in the elderly.

International Psychogeriatrics is published for the International Psychogeriatric Association (IPA) and is published by Cambridge University Press, Cambridge, UK. Although it is primarily concerned with psychogeriatrics, the journal welcomes contributions from all over the field of mental health and aging. Original research papers are of particular weight. Contributions include original research articles, case reports, reviews of the literature, book reviews, letters to the editor, and editorials. Apart from abstracts and book reviews, which are commissioned, contributions to International Psychogeriatrics are spontaneously written and submitted by authors. Papers are reviewed by two independent reviewers selected by the Editor-in-Chief. In advance, about half of the papers submitted are accepted for publication. The journal’s Science Citation Index impact factor is 2.451 (2016). Submission of a paper implies that it is neither under consideration for publication elsewhere, nor previously published in English. Manuscripts must be formatted double-space wide format on all sizes and the pages should be numbered. International Psychogeriatrics uses the spelling of American English. Manuscripts written by those whose primary language is not English should be edited carefully for language prior to submission. The journal has a Language Advisory Panel consisting of both native English-speaking editors who will check manuscripts for style prior to submission, and bilingual editors willing to assist in the translation of manuscripts into English. Further details including contact information for individual panel members can be found at both the journal and IPA websites (journals.cambridge.org/ipg and www.ipa-online.org).
