

Contents

Preface	page xi
1 Philosophy for Trolls	1
Alexander the Great visits Diogenes of Sinope, a cranky philosopher. Alexander makes a surprise offer. Diogenes replies.
I DISTRACTION BY DESIGN	5
2 The Faulty GPS	7
In which the author encounters new armies of deep distraction.
3 The Age of Attention	12
Information abundance produces attention scarcity. The world turns inside out.
4 Bring your own Boundaries	17
Digital technologies privilege our impulses over our intentions, creating new challenges of self-regulation.
5 Empires of the Mind	26
A vast infrastructure of intelligent persuasion emerges under our feet. It wants our attention; it is not on our side.
II CLICKS AGAINST HUMANITY	41
6 The Citizen is the Product	43
At risk is not merely our “attention” narrowly defined, but the human will – the basis of political authority.

7	The Spotlight	50
	Redirection of thought and action in the moment.
	The usual suspects of distraction.
8	The Starlight	55
	The frustration of being over time. Adversarial design that militates against our pursuit of higher goals and values.
9	The Daylight	68
	The erosion of fundamental capacities necessary for navigating human life. The ground underfoot gives way.
	III FREEDOM OF ATTENTION	85
10	The Ground of First Struggle	87
	Rejecting attentional serfdom may be the defining moral and political task of our time.
11	The Monster and the Bank	97
	In which pitfalls are sidestepped and misconceptions are cleared.
12	Marginal People on Marginal Time	106
	Visions of rebellion and reform. A hand-drawn map to a place no one has ever been.
13	The Brightest Heaven of Invention	125
	The music swells, the rocket lifts. A new light appears in the sky.
	Acknowledgments	129
	Further Reading	131
	Index	132