IGOR MARKEVITCH - COMPOSER
Chronology; Worklist; Letters
Studies of Partita, 'Icare',
'Le Paradis perdu', Handel Variations
The conductor's debt to the composer
DE GRAEFF, BENNETT,
MARKEVITCH, MOREUX,
MAVRODIN

'FAÇADE' REVISITED
Paul Driver

Holloway on DAVID DEL TREDICI
Schiffer on GEORGE BENJAMIN
Bradshaw on GILES SWAYNE
Driver on MICHAEL FINNISSY and STOCKHAUSEN

No 133/4
£1.20

REVIEWS
PHOTOGRAPHS
NEWS SECTION
CONTRIBUTORS

ALEX DE GRAEFF was born in 1912 in The Hague, and moved to Switzerland in 1922 and to Paris in 1926. She was active for several years as a concert pianist, and has again lived in The Hague since World War II. Her article on Markevitch’s Partita originally appeared in 1933 under the nom de plume ‘Jean Salvan’ (‘Salvan’ being the name of the mountain outside her window when she wrote it).

CLIVE BENNETT is a producer in the Music Division of the BBC, and is a regular contributor to the Arts pages of the Times, Sunday Times and other newspapers.

SERGE MOREUX, the distinguished French music critic, contributed articles to many journals (including TEMPO) between the late 1920's and early 1950's. He is probably best remembered as the author of the first authoritative study of Bartók to be published outside Hungary—Béla Bartók, sa vie, ses œuvres, son langage (Paris, 1949). He also wrote the libretto for Jean Martinon's opera Hippolyte.

ALICE MAVRODIN, who is on the music staff of the Romanian Radio, has served as musicological assistant to Igor Markevitch in the preparation of his encyclopaedic edition of the Beethoven symphonies. She is the author of books on Rameau and Verdi.

ROBIN HOLLOWAY’s most recent works are a Horn Concerto for Barry Tuckwell, an Idyll for the Northern Sinfonia Orchestra, an Ode for the English Chamber Orchestra in celebration of Sir Peter Pears's 70th birthday, and Aria for 14 players, commissioned by the 1980 City of London Festival.

ANDREA OLMSTEAD has recently been appointed regular reviewer of New York contemporary music concerts for High Fidelity magazine.

MICHAEL FINNissy. Recent premières include alongside (reviewed in TEMPO 132) and Sea and Sky (reviewed in the present issue). On 16 July, Finnissy gave the first performance of his Boogie-Woogie for piano at the Arezzo Festival.

DAVID JOHNSON (b.1942) is a composer and freelance musical historian. He has recently edited Ten Georgian Glees for SATB for Oxford University Press, and is working on Scottish Fiddle Music in the 18th Century, an anthology and critical study to be published by John Donald in 1981. He plays cello continuo in the McGibbon Ensemble, which appeared at the Edinburgh Folk Festival earlier this year.
A QUARTERLY REVIEW OF MODERN MUSIC

No.133/134            EDITOR-IN-CHIEF DAVID DREW
September 1980       MANAGING EDITOR CALUM MACDONALD

‘FAÇADE’ REVISITED      Paul Driver

IGOR MARKEVITCH:
A CHRONOLOGY; A CATALOGUE
THE EARLY WORKS AND BEYOND
PARTITA
‘ICARE’
THE PATH TO ‘LE PARADIS PERDU’
‘LE PARADIS PERDU’ IN ITS TIME
VARIATIONS, FUGUE, AND ENVOI
ON A THEME OF HANDEL
WHAT THE CONDUCTOR OWES TO THE COMPOSER

REVIEW
First Performances
Del Tredici’s ‘Adventures
  Underground’         Robin Holloway
Stockhausen’s JUBILEE
George Benjamin’s ‘Ringed by the flat horizon’     Brigitte Schiffer
Roger Sessions’s Symphony No.9
Giles Swayne’s ‘Cry’          Andrea Olmstead
Finnissy’s ‘Sea and Sky’        Susan Bradshaw

Recordings
Conlon Nancarrow               Michael Finnissy
Andrzej Panufnik                   Stephen Walsh

Books
Prokofieff by Prokofieff
Warlock
Scots Fiddle Music

NEWS SECTION