The Journal of Institutional Economics is an interdisciplinary journal that publishes work on the role of institutions in economic growth and development. It welcomes contributions by all scholars of institutions, including firms, states, markets, money, households and other vital institutions and organizations. It welcomes contributions by all schools of thought that can contribute to our understanding of the functions, development and future of world economic institutions and organizations.

SUBMISSION
All manuscripts must be submitted online via the website: http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/joie

To submit your manuscript online, first register as a reviewer by clicking on the 'Register' and Form link in the top right of the screen; then click on the 'New Submission Form' icon on the following page.

The submitted manuscript will be acknowledged receipt of the manuscript, provide us with a manuscript reference number and assign it to reviewers. The reference number of the manuscript should be quoted in all correspondence with JOIE Office and Publisher.

ARTICLE
This journal is registered with the Copyright Clearance Center, 222 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA, USA. The copyright holder for this article grants the American Economic Association the exclusive right to use and distribute its article, in both print and electronic forms, in the journal. If a paper passes this stage, the JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the importance of the institutional development in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.

The JOIE Editors will preliminarily consider the paper for formal evaluation and assignment of a reference number and assign it to reviewers. The front page of the electronic file of the article should include the following information: the title; an abstract of the article of up to 100 words; the title page, including a note about the important of institutions in the economy, including in economics, business studies, sociology, political geography, anthropology and philosophy. The Journal of Institutional Economics is dedicated to promoting and advancing the understanding of the role of institutions in economic growth and development.
A MULTI-DISCIPLINARY FORUM FOR RESEARCH ON ECONOMIC INSTITUTIONS

CONTENTS

569 Comparative institutional advantage: an obituary
Filippo Reale

579 Interactive intentionality and norm formation
Pietro Guarnieri

595 The revolving door, state connections, and inequality of influence in the financial sector
Elise S. Brezis and Joël Cariolle

615 The role of regulation in constituting markets: a co-evolutionary perspective on the UK television production sector
Ana Lourenço and Simon Turner

631 Do voters dislike liberalizing reforms? New evidence using data on satisfaction with democracy
Niclas Berggren and Christian Bjørnskov

649 Informal, formal institutions and credit: complements or substitutes?
Paula Cruz-Garcia and Jesús Peiró-Palomino

673 Is competition among cooperative banks a negative sum game?
Paolo Coccorese and Giovanni Ferri

695 Belgium’s historic beer diversity: should we raise a pint to institutions?
Eline Poelmans and Jason E. Taylor

715 General theorising and historical specificity: Hodgson on Keynes
Rod O’Donnell

733 Keynes and the historical specificity of institutions: a response to Rod O’Donnell
Geoffrey M. Hodgson

741 On the logical properties of Keynes’s theorising, and different approaches to the Keynes–institutionalism nexus
Rod O’Donnell

749 General theorising and historical specificity: Hodgson on Keynes – CORRIGENDUM
Rod O’Donnell