Aims and Scope

Economics and Philosophy is a semi-annual journal designed to foster collaboration between economists and philosophers and to bridge the increasingly artificial disciplinary boundaries that divide them. Economists more and more acknowledge that their work in both positive and normative economics depends on methodological and ethical commitments that demand philosophical study and justification. Philosophers increasingly insist that philosophy of science must be informed by and tested against studies of current science and of its history, while ethics and political philosophy must depend on what we know about human aims and interests and about the principles, benefits, and drawbacks of different forms of social organization.

Articles in Economics and Philosophy will explore the foundations of economics as both a predictive/explanatory enterprise and a normative one and will examine the relevance of economic techniques, methods and conclusions to philosophical questions in ethics and social theory.

An Inquiry into Well-Being and Destitution
Partha Dasgupta

'It is a characteristic work: philosophically sophisticated, empirically well-informed, ambitious and lively. I think that there can be few people as able as he is to write the book.' James Griffin

'Dasgupta has produced a tour de force, a book which is a model of good economics.' Joseph Stiglitz

'a cross disciplinary study of great importance to the various disciplines it engages' Jack Goody

This seminal work deals comprehensively with the problem of poverty. A central concern of the author has been to reconcile theoretical considerations with the empirical evidence that has been obtained in several disciplines. The entire discussion is designed to provide a political philosophy for human well-being that can guide public policy in poor countries.

Foundations of Rational Choice Under Risk
Paul Anand

Paul Anand describes and evaluates a number of existing criticisms of the formal theory of rationality and subjective expected utility theory. He provides his own axiomatic alternative account of rational choice which sets it in the context of the relation between an agent's preferences and his or her behaviour.

0-19-823303-5, 176 pp., 4 figures, 13 tables, £22.50

The Quality of Life
Edited by Martha Nussbaum, and Amartya Sen

In this book, leading economists and philosophers rise to the challenge of exploring systematically the concept of the quality of life and of finding ways of making it concrete and usable.

0-19-828395-4, 464 pp., line drawings, Clarendon Press £45.00

REISSUE
On Economic Inequality
Amartya Sen

'Rearly has so small a volume offered so comprehensive an overview of its subject, constituting a readable and intelligent evaluation of the literature of economic inequality.' Economica

Now reissued with a new introduction, this book presents a systematic treatment of the conceptual framework and practical problems of measurement of inequality.

0-19-828193-5, 136 pp., figures, table, paperback, November 1993 £7.95

ECONOMICS AND PHILOSOPHY
INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Article contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to Economics and Philosophy, Department of Economics, Fernald House, Williams College, Williamstown, MA 01267, U.S.A. The journal’s editorial office may also be accessed at BITNET address SANDRA.D.MONTCOMERY@WILLIAMS or at ARPA network address SMONTGOMERY@VAX.CS.WILLIAMS.EDU. Please use for correspondence only.

Authors should send four copies of their manuscript and reserve one copy for their use in checking proofs. Articles must be in English. Spelling, capitalization, and punctuation must be consistent within each article and conform with the Thirteenth Edition of The Chicago Manual of Style (University of Chicago Press).

Books for review should be sent to the Book Review Editor: Professor Margaret Schabas, Department of Philosophy, York University, 4700 Keele Street, North York, Ontario, Canada M3J 1P3. Her BITNET address is SCHABAS@NEXUS.YORKU.CA.

Preparation of manuscript. A separate title page should be prepared carrying the article title, auxiliary short title (not over 50 characters), author’s full name (in the form preferred for publication), and author’s affiliation (including full mailing address and phone number). Because blind reviewing will be employed, authors are asked to identify themselves only on the title page.

The entire manuscript (including notes and references) should be typed double-spaced on 8½ by 11 inch or A4 paper, with wide margins for copy editing. Manuscript pages should be numbered consecutively.

Figures. If the manuscript is accepted for publication, the author must provide figures that are ready for photographic reproduction; they cannot be redrawn by the publisher, unless the author pays for the cost of such work. Charts, graphs, or other artwork must be drawn by a professional artist or computer generated on a laser printer, in black ink on white paper, and should remain legible after a 50% reduction. All labels and details on figures should be clearly printed (or done in transfer type of a sans-serif face such as Helvetica).

References and notes. Bibliographic citations in the text must include the author’s last name and the date of publication and may include page references: (Bryant, 1980, pp. 335-44). When an author’s name is part of the text, the following form should be used: “Bryant (1980, pp. 335-44) maintained that . . . .” When a work by two or more authors is referred to, all names should be given in the first citation: (Kravis, Heston, and Summers, 1978), with subsequent citations of the same authors by last name only. When separate works are referred to within the same parentheses, they should be listed in alphabetical order. Those by the same author should be separated by commas and those by different authors by semicolons: (Fuss and McFadden, 1978; Georgescu-Roegen, 1971, 1976).

Complete bibliographic information for each citation should be included in the list of references. References should be typed in alphabetic order using the style of the following examples:

Titles of journals may not be abbreviated. When more than an in-text citation is called for, footnotes may be used. These should be numbered consecutively throughout the text and typed at the bottom of the page in which they are cited. Source citations within footnotes follow the same style as citations in text.

Copyediting and proofreading. The publishers reserve the right to copyedit and proofread all articles accepted for publication, but authors will be consulted in the case of any substantial changes. Page proofs of each article will be sent to the lead author for correction of typographical errors only.

General. The lead author will receive 25 offprints of his or her article free of charge; additional numbers may be purchased if ordered at proof stage. Submission of an article implies that it has not been published elsewhere. Authors are responsible for obtaining written permission to publish material for which they do not own the copyright. Contributors will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press.
