Women and the Genesis of Christianity

BEN WITHERINGTON III

Edited by ANN WITHERINGTON

This book sets out to present as clearly as possible all significant passages in the New Testament which deal with women and their roles in New Testament times. A comprehensive survey, Women and the Genesis of Christianity shows how there was a welcome attempt to permit women to hold a new kind of authority in religious contexts.

From Adam to Christ

Essays on Paul

MORNA D. HOOKER

This collection of essays written by one of the foremost contemporary New Testament scholars, focuses on Paul's understanding of human redemption. Professor Hooker explores the contradistinction between Adam and Christ, showing that, while the Law reflected God's glory, its power was nevertheless incomplete.

Paul: Crisis in Galatia

A Study in Early Christian Theology
Second Edition

GEORGE HOWARD

In this second edition of a work which first appeared in 1979, Professor Howard brings his original discussion of Paul's Letter to the Galatians into line with recent scholarship and his present thinking on the issues it raises.

Paul, Judaism and the Gentiles

A Sociological Approach

FRANCIS WATSON

This book is novel in its questioning of the adequacy of interpreting Paul from the perspective of the Reformation and in its application of sociological methods to the New Testament.

'A bold and provocative thesis, presented clearly and readably.'

Community and Gospel in Luke-Acts

The Social and Political Motivations of Lucan Theology

PHILIP F. ESLER

'Esler's thesis is undoubtedly one of the freshest to appear on Luke-Acts in recent years, clearly and compellingly written, complementing bold hypotheses with a wealth of detailed research and observation, models . . . provocative and challenging it represents a significant new approach to Lucan studies.'

Studies on the Testament of Job

Edited by MICHAEL A. KNIBB and PIETER W. VAN DER HORST

For much of the modern period the Testament of Job has been one of the lesser-known pseudepigraphic products of early Judaism. This book attempts to remedy the deficiency of scholarly material in the area with a well-balanced treatment of its central concerns.

ANNENBERG RESEARCH INSTITUTE

Post Doctoral Fellowships 1992/93

Application Deadline November 1, 1991

The Institute invites applications from scholars engaged in advanced research in Judaic and Near Eastern Studies, the latter including pre-Christian, Christian, and Islamic history and culture, from ancient to modern times.

Any topic within these fields may be proposed. For the academic year 1992-93, the main topic of investigation will be:

THE DEAD SEA SCROLLS

The Institute will welcome scholars dealing with texts from the Judean Desert from a variety of points of view, including editing and publication of texts, philological and exegetical study, and the elaboration of the importance of these finds for the study of the history of Judaism and Christianity.

The Institute intends to have a working group dealing with the Dead Sea Scrolls, but by no means wishes to neglect all other areas of Judaic and Near Eastern Studies, and thus encourages submission of applications in other areas of study.

Stipend amounts are based on a Fellow's academic standing and financial need, with a maximum of $45,000 for the academic year. A contribution may also be made towards travel expenses.

Fellows are expected to lead one seminar in each semester dealing with their work, and to contribute a publishable paper at the end of the academic year.

Awards will be announced January 15, 1992.
