Comparative Studies in Society and History

Editor:

Thomas R.
Trautmann

University of Michigan

Comparative Studies in Society and History is an international forum for scholars in the social sciences and humanities. Its articles present significant research on societies of every era from pre-history to the present and on every continent. CSSH brings together multidisciplinary research, cultural studies, and theory, emphasizing innovative work in the social sciences, especially anthropology, history, political science, and sociology. In each section, articles on a particular question are grouped together to stimulate comparison of diverse cases. Also included in each issue are CSSH Notes and book reviews. Articles in 1997 included: Inter-Communal Relations and Changes in Religious Affiliation in the Middle East (Seventeenth to Nineteenth Centuries) • The Policing of Tradition: Colonialism and Anthropology in Southern India • Nobles or Pariahs? The Exclusion of Florentine Magnates from the Thirteenth to the Fifteenth
