Notes for contributors
All papers should be submitted using Manuscript Central through the journal’s website at http://journals.cambridge.org/jid_ASO. All books for review should be sent to: Stella Allinson, Review Editors’ Office, The Journal of Ageing & Society, School of Health and Social Welfare, The Open University, Walton Hall, Milton Keynes MK7 6AA, UK.

General approach and preparation of manuscripts
Authors are asked to bear in mind the multi-disciplinary and international readership when writing their contribution. In particular, care should be taken to draw out the implications of the analysis for readers in other fields, contexts and disciplines. The strenghts, presentation of individuals or societies, and the use of alegrian language, should be avoided.

Authors should generally be accustomed between 3,000 and 9,000 words. All contributions (including reviews) should be typed double-spaced with at least one-inch or two centimetre margins throughout (including notes and the list of references). Most papers require the following sections in sequence: Title page, Main text, Keywords (three to eight), main text, Acknowledgements, NOTES, References, Correspondence Address. The tables and figures should be presented on one in page sequence at the end of the paper.

The page should give the title of the article and the authors’ names, affiliations and postal and email addresses. Authors are asked to follow the current style conventions as closely as possible. Please consult a very recent issue of the journal. In particular, please follow the following:

- Use the British variants of English-language spelling, so 'ageing' not 'aging'.
- First level headers are in bold, sentence case and left justified
- Second level headers are in italic (not bold), sentence case and left justified
- Do not number paragraphs or sections. Avoid very short (particularly one sentence) paragraphs. Do not use bold text in the text at all. For emphasis, use italic.
- In the main text, the numbers one to nine should be written as words, but for higher numbers, numerals (e.g. 11, 23, 364) should be used.
- All abbreviations must be expanded on first use, even EU, USA, UK or UN, for those which are commonplace in one country are not others.
- Do not use footnotes. Endnotes are permitted for technical and information details (including test statistics) that distract from the main argument. Endnote superscripts should be placed outside a punctuation mark (so . not ;)
- Write per cent (not %) except in illustrative brackets.

Citation of references
Citations may use either: (a) in-text citation of sources (author/date system); or (b) citation in notes.

(a) In-text citation
Give author’s surname, date of publication and page references (if any) in parenthesis in the body of the text, e.g. (Cole 1992: 251). For references with one to three authors, all authors should be named (Black, Green and Brown 2003). For references with four or more authors, the following form is required: (Brown et al. 2003). Note that all authors must be named in the list of references, and et al. is not permitted. A complete list, arranged alphabetically by authors’ surnames, should be typed at the end of the paper. (e.g. Cole, T. 1992. The Journey of Life: A Cultural History of Aging in America. Cambridge University Press, Cambridge.)

(b) Citation in notes
References should be given in notes, numbered consecutively through the typescript with raised numbers, and typed double-spaced at the end of the article. Full publication details, in the same format as (a), should be given in the notes when a work is first cited; for second and subsequent citations a short form may be used. For some styles of reference lists, please particularly in the humanities, full details may be omitted. Authors are requested to minimise the citation of unpublished working and conference papers (because they are difficult for readers to acquire). Where they are cited, complete details of the title of the conference, the convening organisation, the location and the date of the presentation must be given.

Tales of Books and Journals are in Title Case and Italic.

Copyright notices of papers in journals and articles in books and chapters are in sentence case and not italicised.

Page ranges for book chapters should always be given. Page ranges should be condensed, so 335-64 not 335-364, and S221–9 not S221–S229. Use (eds) and (ed) where required. For journal paper references, part numbers must be given.

Citation of Internet pages or publications that are available online
Give author, date, title (publisher or name of host website) as for a printed publication. Then follow with Available online at ... [full internet address] [Accessed date].

Tables
Tables should be clearly laid out on separate pages, numbered consecutively, and designed to fit a printed page of 234 × 155 mm. Tables should be typed above the body of the table, with an initial capital only for the first word and proper names and italics. Vertical lines should not be used and horizontal lines should be used only at the top and bottom of the table and below column headings. Authors are asked to give particular attention to the title and column and row labels (they are often poorly selected, incomprehensible or inadequate). All multiple word labels must be capitalised. Where multiple short titles that contribute on the subject of the table are provided, specific technical or methodological details (such as sample size or type of statistic) should be described in table notes. Spurious accuracy should be avoided; if only one figure is given, do not justify only two figures.

Figures
Figures should also be provided on separate pages and numbered consecutively. In the margin of the typescript approximately where the tables and figures should appear. Do not convert figures to word “Picture” format.

Submission
Submission of a manuscript to be published is open to all qualified authors and is subject to the conditions described on our website. Papers which are found to be not in accordance with these conditions will not be considered for publication.

Proofs and offprints
Final proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address and guarantee that they can reach him by telephone after which they can be reached without delay and guarantee to return corrected proofs to the Editor within seven days. The master proof will always be sent direct to the Editor by the printer, contributors will receive an email alert that the proofs are available at the printer’s website address. Offprints may be purchased if ordered at proof stage.
