THE HERITAGE OF CHRISTIAN THOUGHT

Essays in Honor of Robert Lowry Calhoun

edited by Robert E. Cushman and Egil Grislis both of Duke University

During his years as Sterling Professor of Historical Theology at Yale Divinity School, Robert Lowry Calhoun has made philosophy and theology lucid and exciting to generations of students and has influenced dynamically the development of American Christian thought as a whole. Now, on the occasion of his fortieth year at Yale and on the eve of his retirement, a number of Dr. Calhoun's former students—who have themselves become scholars of major stature—offer a stimulating series of papers on crucial periods of Christian thought, from the beginnings of Christianity to the social encyclicals of Pope John XXIII.

GREAT HERESIES AND CHURCH COUNCILS

by Jean Guitton, The Sorbonne

The only Catholic layman appointed by Pope John XXIII to act as lay observer at Vatican Council II summarizes brilliantly the theological and historical background vital to today's religious discussion. In the light of the current Council considerations, the author—1954 winner of the Grand Prix de Littérature of the Académie Française—examines seven great crises in the life of the Church of Rome which compelled the Church to a radical self-reappraisal and which continue to hold valuable lessons: Jewish rejection of Christ as the Messiah, Gnosticism, Arianism, Islam, Catharism, the Reformation, and Atheist Humanism.

THE REFORMATION

A Narrative History Related by Contemporary Observers and Participants

edited by Hans J. Hillerbrand, Duke University

"Selections from contemporary sources . . . made with an eye to the human and dramatic aspects of the Reformation movement, so that the book conveys the excitement of the period and the concerns of the people in an authentic way . . . A story well told."—Lewis W. Spitz, President, The American Society for Reformation Research. Illustrated.

Charles Wesley-The First Methodist

"John was respected, feared, venerated, but Charles was loved."—the author. Charles Wesley, "the unknown quantity" in the Methodist movement, comes out of the shadows and takes his rightful place as the co-founder of Methodism in this lively biography. The author skillfully depicts Charles as a dynamic person and emphasizes that he was the first Methodist, his conversion having preceded his brother's. Fascinating reading based on sound, thoroughly researched material. 240 pages. Illustrated, $5
