Japan Today

Second Edition

ROGER BUCKLEY

This new edition expands Roger Buckley's popular survey of contemporary Japan to the summer of 1989 and shows how Japan's increasing industrial and financial power is forcing it to reassess its foreign and defence policies.

Saints, Goddesses and Kings

Muslims and Christians in South Indian Society, 1700–1900

SUSAN BAYLY

Using a powerful combination of oral, literary and archival evidence, Susan Bayly examines the world of muslim and christian worshippers in South India. She shows that these disparate groups incorporated local cults and themes of hindu warrior prowess to create distinctive forms of the 'conversion' religions.

The Expedient Utopian

Bandaranaike and Ceylon

JAMES MANOR

Current tensions between Sinhalese and Tamil communities in Sri Lanka are rooted in the country's early post-colonial development. This book, the first English biography of S. W. R. D. Bandaranaike, examines the role of a pivotal figure in Ceylon's development, his idealist views, social reforms and conflicting personal beliefs.

Contributions to Indian Sociology

editor: T N MADAN

associate editors: VEENA DAS
SATISH SABERWAL
RAMACHANDRA GUHA

book review editor: PATRICIA UBEROI

Contributions to Indian Sociology is the pre-eminent forum for the presentation of research material on Indian and South Asian societies and cultures and for the discussion of different approaches to their study. This journal publishes neither purely theoretical essays nor purely ethnographic accounts but favours papers in which data and theory are mutually related. Occasionally papers dealing with themes of cross-civilisational significance, bringing in data from non-South Asian societies, are also published.

Contributions to Indian Sociology is an indispensable and highly regarded forum for the understanding of South Asian society, culture and religion and provides theoretical insights applicable to the study of other developing societies as well.

Contributions to Indian Sociology is published biannually in May and November.

The Indian Economic and Social History Review

Editor: DHARMA KUMAR,
Delhi School of Economics, Delhi

The Indian Economic and Social History Review offers scholars a major forum for an interdisciplinary study of the social and economic history of India. Articles published in this journal also cover other Asian countries and provide comparative perspectives with a wider geographic spread. The journal occasionally publishes special issues which explore single topics. In addition to research articles, the book review section often contains substantial review articles. Bibliographic surveys, which also cover material available in Indian languages, are a special feature.

The journal has established itself as indispensable reading for anyone concerned with the history, economy and society of India, and is of interest to those concerned with world development and history in general.

The Indian Economic and Social History Review is published quarterly in March, June, September and December.

Recent Articles published in IESHR include:

SUMIT GUHA: The handloom industry of Central India: 1825-1950

VIJAYA RAMASWAMY: Aspects of women and work in early South India

TIM DYSON: The population history of Berar since 1881 and its potential wider significance

The Thought of Mao Tse-Tung

STUART R. SCHRAM

Mao's most influential and long-lasting contribution to revolutionary China was his thought. Stuart Schram examines the development of Mao's thought from the May Fourth period to the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution and in so doing sheds much light on his life and times.

The Devs of Cincvad

A Lineage and State in Maharashtra

LAURENCE W. PRESTON

The Devs occupied a privileged social position in India from the 1620s onwards, largely due to the grants of rent-free land around Pune which were passed from generation to generation. This innovative study examines the maintenance of this power and the failure of the British imperialists to acknowledge traditional Indian power structures.

Community and Consensus in Islam

Muslim Representation in Colonial India: 1860–1947

FARZANA SHAIKH

This book is a bold attempt to reintroduce the role of ideas in the interpretation of Indo-Muslim politics between 1860 and the partition of India in 1947. Dr Shaikh argues that any explanation of muslim political practice must incorporate Islamic traditions.

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS

Modern Asian Studies is concerned with the history, geography, politics, sociology, literature, economics and social anthropology of South Asia, South-East Asia, China and Japan. Contributions should be based on original research or field-work.

All articles (text, notes and references) must be clearly typed in double spacing throughout, including footnotes, on one side only of the paper—preferably A4. Two copies should be submitted. Spelling, dates, references and footnote numbers should be checked for accuracy. The use of diacritical marks, italics and capital letters should be kept to a minimum. References repeated in the footnotes should be by author and short title; or the Harvard system of citation may be used.

The title of the article and the author's name and affiliation should be typed on a separate page at the beginning of the article.

Tables should be clearly laid out and numbered consecutively. Vertical lines between columns should be omitted. All figures and totals should be checked for accuracy.

Maps and figures should be clearly legible in every detail. The spelling of place names should be consistent with that used in the text.

Every table, map and figure should have a title and at least one reference in the text to indicate its location.

First proofs only will be sent to the author who will be expected to return them to the Editor within three days. Excessive alterations and additions may be charged to the author.

Each author will receive twenty-five free offprints of his article and a copy of the part of the journal in which it appears.

Submission of an article will be taken to imply that it has not been previously published and that it is not on offer to any other publisher. In the interests of authors, copyright is normally assigned to Cambridge University Press. The editor welcomes expression of all shades of opinion, but responsibility for them rests with their authors.

All correspondence should be addressed to Dr Gordon Johnson, Selwyn College, Cambridge CB3 9DG, England.
