

China: Past & Present

Revolutionizing the Family

Politics, Love, and Divorce in Urban and Rural China, 1949-1968

Neil J. Diamant

In 1950, China's new Communist government enacted a Marriage Law to allow free choice in marriage and easier access to divorce; it was one of the most dramatic efforts ever by a state to change marital and family relationships. This comprehensive study examines the effects of that law.

Of Battle and Beauty

Felice Beato's Photographs of China

David Harris

Introduction by Lyman P. Van Slyke

Accompanying the British Army into China in 1860, Felice Beato (1820–1907) was the first photographer to document a military campaign in progress. He captured not only the immediacy of war, the aftermath of battle, and strategic military positions, but also provided a strikingly beautiful glimpse of nineteenth-century China.

The Nanjing Massacre in History and Historiography

Edited by Joshua A. Fogel

Foreword by Charles Maier

The Rape of Nanjing was one of the worst atrocities committed during World War II. This carefully researched, intelligent collection of original essays considers the post-World War II treatment in China of the Nanjing Massacre and Japan.

Becoming Chinese

Passages to Modernity and Beyond

Edited by Wen-hsin Yeh

This volume evaluates the dual roles of war and modernity in the transformation of twentieth-century Chinese identity. The contributors, all leading researchers, argue that war, no less than revolution, deserves attention as a major force in the making of twentieth-century Chinese history. The book makes an important contribution toward a postsocialist understanding of twentieth-century China.
