

News and Notes

Activities

Donald G. Baker, Southampton College, Long Island University, is on leave for 1975 and early 1976, engaged in research on race relations in Rhodesia. He has been appointed a senior research fellow at the Centre for Inter-Racial Studies, University of Rhodesia, Salisbury, Rhodesia.

William J. Daniels, Union College, has been appointed to the Board of Correspondents of D.E.A. NEWS.

Martin Diamond, Northern Illinois University, currently on leave as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow at the International Center for Scholars, has been named by President Ford as one of the 25 members of the American Revolution Bicentennial Advisory Council which will advise the Administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration on matters relating to the commemoration of the nation's 200th anniversary.

Stephen C. Halpern, SUNY, Buffalo, has received a Baldy Fellowship for research in Law and Social Policy. He is studying the nature of grievances received by a local chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union and the process by which such complaints are screened, investigated and resolved.

Gary Hoskin, SUNY, Buffalo, returned in January 1975 from 18 months research leave in Bogota, Colombia. His research was supported by grants from the Foreign Area Fellowship Program and also from Colciencia (Colombian equivalent to the National Science Foundation).

Edward S. Milenky, Boston College, has been awarded a Post-Doctoral Organization of American States Fellowship which will enable him to conduct four months of research in Argentina and Uruguay on Latin America's changing role in world affairs. He will be affiliated with the Institute for the Integration of Latin America, a research and training unit of the Inter-American Development Bank in Buenos Aires.

William T. Murphy, Jr., Brown University, will be on leave for the academic year 1975-76 to serve as Staff Director of the Personnel Subcommittee of the House Administration Committee in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Ying-Hsien Pi, Institute of International Relations, Taipei, and Min Kang, Dankook University, Seoul, have joined the Center for Asian Studies of Arizona State University to receive training on research methods relevant respectively to Sino-Soviet disputes and public administration of China.

Richard H. Rosswurm, Marshall University, received a National Endowment for the Humanities stipend to participate in a 1975 Summer Seminar for College Teachers, "Freedom and Responsibility in the American Tradition: Two Centuries of Constitutional Government," under Henry J. Abraham at the University of Virginia, June 15-August 15.

Jane P. Shapiro, Manhattanville College, is on leave during 1974-75 and is a Senior Fellow at the Russian Institute, Columbia University.

Albert Somit, SUNY, Buffalo, organized and chaired a special conference on biopolitics in Paris, January 6-9, 1975, conducted under the sponsorship of the International Political Science Association and assisted by a grant from the Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation.

W. J. Stankiewicz, University of British Columbia, Vancouver, is on sabbatical leave for the 1974-75 academic year. During the fall term 1974 he travelled to Australia where he lectured in eight universities. On the way home, he visited the University of Singapore, University of Nairobi and Haile Selassie University in Addis Ababa.

Yung Wei, Hoover Institution, Stanford University, and Memphis State University, chaired a workshop on Political Partitioning, Migration, Minorities, and Non-State Nations in Washington, D.C., February 18, 1975. The workshop was sponsored by the Comparative and Interdisciplinary Studies section of the International Studies Association with a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

New Appointments

Emil L. Bernick, instructor, Iowa State University.

Joseph Board, Robert Porter Patterson Professor of Government, Union College; also serving as visiting professor at SUNY, Albany, for second semester, 1974-75.

Bernard Edward Brown, professor, Lehman College, CUNY; formerly of Brooklyn College, CUNY.

Robert Harkavy, assistant professor, Iowa State University.

Sanford Victor Levinson, assistant professor, Princeton University.

Jeffrey Protas, assistant professor, University of Illinois, Chicago Circle; formerly of MIT.

Claes G. Ryn, assistant professor, Catholic University of America.

Willard Paul Tice, associate faculty, Oklahoma City University.

Lettie M. Wenner, assistant professor, University of Illinois, Chicago Circle.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Bruce Cumings, Columbia University: visiting assistant professor, Union College.

Charles Gati, Union College: visiting professor, Columbia University.

Barbara Jancar, visiting associate professor, Union College.

John C. Morgan, visiting assistant professor, Washington College, Chestertown, Maryland.

Yung Wei, Memphis State University: National Fellow at Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace, Stanford University, 1974-75.

Administrative Appointments

Norman Adler, research director, New York State Assembly Committee on Cities of New York.

Choong-Sik Ahn, chairman, Oklahoma Baptist University.

Richard W. Gable, director, Development Studies Program, Agency for International Development, Department of State, Washington, D.C.

John V. Granger, executive secretary, Federal Council for Science and Technology.

Gary Hoskin, associate provost, SUNY, Buffalo.

Henry Kennedy, chairman, Florida Technological University.

H. Pierre Secher, chairman, Memphis State University.

Robert Sharlet, chairman, Union College and Russian Institute, Columbia University.

Michael W. Suleiman, head, Kansas State University.

Donald Thurston, director, Program in Comparative Community Studies, Union College.

Robert C. Vogt, associate dean, Hofstra University.

Promotions

Choong-sik Ahn, Oklahoma Baptist University: associate professor.

Benjamin R. Barber, Rutgers University: professor.

Michael S. Cummings, University of Colorado, Denver: assistant professor.

Frederick Hartwig, Union College: associate professor.

Robert C. McIntire, Millikin University: associate professor.

Byron Nichols, Union College: associate professor.

Yung Wei, Memphis State University: professor.

In Memoriam

Kenneth Wallace Colegrove

The American Political Science Association has lost one of its most devoted members in the death of Kenneth Wallace Colegrove, who served for many years as the Association's Secretary-Treasurer.

Born in Iowa in 1886, the son of the President of Upper Iowa University, he was a graduate of both the University of Northern Iowa and the State University of Iowa. Subsequently, he was a student at Harvard of two of the nation's giants in the field of history, Edward Channing and Frederick Jackson Turner. Receiving his Ph.D. degree in history at Harvard in 1915, he had two years before already begun his teaching career in history at Mount Holyoke.

After three years at Mount Holyoke College as a lecturer, Dr. Colegrove served as an Assistant Professor of History at Syracuse University for three years.

Then, in 1919, he began his 33-year teaching career at Northwestern University in political science, retiring in 1952. During much of this period he served as Chairman of the Department and also as Secretary-Treasurer of the American Political Science Association.

Dr. Colegrove's career was characterized by meritorious work both in scholarship and public service. He served as a delegate (1952-1955) of the American Council of Learned Societies and as a member of the Executive Council of the American Society of International Law. In 1929, in Paris, he served as Editor of the European Economic and Political Survey.

For more than a generation Dr. Colegrove's counsel was sought at the highest level in the nation's capital. In 1933 he served as a member of the Board of Personnel Examiners of the U.S. Department of Labor. But few other scholars so early and so clearly recognized the twin menaces of communism and fascism. Long before Pearl Harbor he led in the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, serving as the Chairman of the influential Evanston Chapter in 1940-41.

During World War II Dr. Colegrove served as a consultant to the Office of Strategic Services. Following the war, as General Douglas MacArthur's political advisor, Dr. Colegrove drafted the Japanese Constitution.

During this period President Nicholas Murray Butler at Columbia University, conferred an honorary degree on Dr. Colegrove, making special note of his volume, The United States Senate and World Peace.

Dr. Colegrove's public service also included an especial role with former President Herbert Hoover and with Presidents Truman and Eisenhower during the Hoover Commissions on government organization and with the Hoover libraries both at Stanford University and at West Branch, Iowa. A defender of individual liberty, he instituted what became a landmark