COMING

JONAS SAVIMBI, the dynamic president of UNITA (National Union for the Total Independence of Angola) spoke not long ago at CRIA. He then responded to questions and comments—some friendly, some not so friendly. The result is a fascinating glimpse of a man who continues to play an important role in the future of Angola.

ROBERT ALLAN COOK asks if contemporary America is following the path of the ill-fated Weimar Republic. Many distinctions, he says, but then examines three significant, interrelated, and portentous trends that the two have in common.

ANGELO LAZZAROTTO, former director of the Catholic Center of Hong Kong, writes of Christians in China. How can our concern be shown? Is there any way to help them solve the contradictions burdening their lives? Fr. Lazzarotto attempts some answers.

SUDHIR SEN, drawing upon his own expertise and vast experience, reviews the Good Work of E.F. Schumacher, passing shrewd judgment on the major concepts of E.F.S. and raising to prominence points often slighted in comments on his work, e.g., his stress on the importance of market forces in the selection of appropriate, proper-scale technologies.

And more articles, more authors, more columns, more books... more, more, more.
