Legal Theory draws contributions not only from academic law, but from a wide range of related disciplines in the humanities and social sciences, including philosophy, political science, economics, history and sociology. Topics covered fall mainly into the broad categories of analytical and normative jurisprudence, doctrinal theory, policy analyses of legal doctrines and critical theories of law.

Price information
is available at: http://journals.cambridge.org/leg

Free email alerts
Keep up-to-date with new material – sign up at http://journals.cambridge.org/alerts
International Journal of Law in Context

Instructions for contributors

The International Journal of Law in Context invites submissions of articles in any area of law and its relationship with other disciplines including but not limited to science, literature, humanities, philosophy, sociology, psychology, ethics, history and geography. The journal explores and expands the boundaries of law and legal studies.

Full instructions for contributors are available at journals.cambridge.org/jid_LMC

Submissions

Articles submitted for publication should be sent to Professor David Nelken, University of Macerata, Via Audinot 35, Bologna 40134, Italy.

Email meadow@law.georgetown.edu

Contributors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce any material (including diagrams) and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgments are included in the manuscript. All contributions in the journal are peer-reviewed.

Articles submitted for publication should be sent to Professor David Nelken, University of Macerata, Via Audinot 35, Bologna 40134, Italy.

Email meadow@law.georgetown.edu

All contributions are subject to the Cambridge Core terms of use, available at https://www.cambridge.org/core/terms

3 Articles must be word-processed and double-spaced. A4 or American Quarto paper should be used. These copies should be submitted.

4 Any articles containing material subject to copyright restrictions other than those owned or controlled by the contributor must be accompanied by appropriate permission from the relevant copyright holder(s).

5 For referencing use the Harvard-style system. Sources and date should be cited in the text, with a page reference where relevant, together with an alphabetically ordered end list. For the following style in the Reference List:

Citations in new editions of previously published works should include the date of the original edition and the new edition in the text and in the reference list e.g. Mill (2006 [1806]).

6 footnotes should be used rather than endnotes. Each time a case is referred to in the text, the case report reference should be set out in the footnote. One report reference is sufficient.

References to UK statutes should be made as follows:

Matrimonial Causes Act 1973, s.25

References to US statutes should be made as follows:

7 Tables should be presented on separate sheets at the end of the article and should have short descriptive titles. Figures should be clearly numbered and should have explanatory captions. The author must indicate where Tables and Figures should be placed in the text.

Proof

Only essential typographical or factual errors may be changed at proof stage. Any amendments to the text after the proofs are reviewed or added to the text are the responsibility of the author.

8 Manuscript preparation:

1. Articles should be written in English. They should not have been published already, nor should they be under consideration elsewhere.

2. Each article should be accompanied by the following information on a separate sheet:

– title of the article
– the author’s name, affiliation and institutional address, together with an email address and telephone and fax numbers
– an abstract of 150–200 words
– articles should be between 6,000 and 8,000 words, including notes.

3. Articles must be word-processed and double-spaced. A4 or American Quarto paper should be used. These copies should be submitted.

4. Any articles containing material subject to copyright restrictions other than those owned or controlled by the contributor must be accompanied by appropriate permission from the relevant copyright holder(s).

5. For referencing use the Harvard-style system. Sources and date should be cited in the text, with a page reference where relevant, together with an alphabetically ordered end list. For the following style in the Reference List:

Citations in new editions of previously published works should include the date of the original edition and the new edition in the text and in the reference list e.g. Mill (2006 [1806]).

6 footnotes should be used rather than endnotes. Each time a case is referred to in the text, the case report reference should be set out in the footnote. One report reference is sufficient.

References to UK statutes should be made as follows:

Matrimonial Causes Act 1973, s.25

References to US statutes should be made as follows:

7 Tables should be presented on separate sheets at the end of the article and should have short descriptive titles. Figures should be clearly numbered and should have explanatory captions. The author must indicate where Tables and Figures should be placed in the text.

Proof

Only essential typographical or factual errors may be changed at proof stage. Any amendments to the text after the proofs are reviewed or added to the text are the responsibility of the author.

8 Manuscript preparation:

1. Articles should be written in English. They should not have been published already, nor should they be under consideration elsewhere.

2. Each article should be accompanied by the following information on a separate sheet:

– title of the article
– the author’s name, affiliation and institutional address, together with an email address and telephone and fax numbers
– an abstract of 150–200 words
– articles should be between 6,000 and 8,000 words, including notes.

3. Articles must be word-processed and double-spaced. A4 or American Quarto paper should be used. These copies should be submitted.

4. Any articles containing material subject to copyright restrictions other than those owned or controlled by the contributor must be accompanied by appropriate permission from the relevant copyright holder(s).

5. For referencing use the Harvard-style system. Sources and date should be cited in the text, with a page reference where relevant, together with an alphabetically ordered end list. For the following style in the Reference List:

Citations in new editions of previously published works should include the date of the original edition and the new edition in the text and in the reference list e.g. Mill (2006 [1806]).

6 footnotes should be used rather than endnotes. Each time a case is referred to in the text, the case report reference should be set out in the footnote. One report reference is sufficient.

References to UK statutes should be made as follows:

Matrimonial Causes Act 1973, s.25

References to US statutes should be made as follows:

7 Tables should be presented on separate sheets at the end of the article and should have short descriptive titles. Figures should be clearly numbered and should have explanatory captions. The author must indicate where Tables and Figures should be placed in the text.

Proof

Only essential typographical or factual errors may be changed at proof stage. Any amendments to the text after the proofs are reviewed or added to the text are the responsibility of the author.

8 Manuscript preparation:

1. Articles should be written in English. They should not have been published already, nor should they be under consideration elsewhere.

2. Each article should be accompanied by the following information on a separate sheet:

– title of the article
– the author’s name, affiliation and institutional address, together with an email address and telephone and fax numbers
– an abstract of 150–200 words
– articles should be between 6,000 and 8,000 words, including notes.
CONTENTS

Articles

1–3 Introduction: mental capacity and value neutrality
Jillian Craigie

4–19 Capacity, value neutrality and the ability to consider the future
Jillian Craigie

20–36 Agency, ambivalence and authenticity: the many ways in which anorexia nervosa can affect autonomy
Tom Hope, Jacinta Tan, Anne Stewart and John McMillan

37–52 Autonomy, vulnerability and capacity: a philosophical appraisal of the Mental Capacity Act
Catriona MacKenzie and Wendy Rogers

53–70 Hidden substance: mental disorder as a challenge to normatively neutral accounts of autonomy
Selhan Feyenhaegen and Tom O'Shea

71–86 Can procedural and substantive elements of decision-making be reconciled in assessments of mental capacity?
Natalie F. Banner

87–105 Mental capacity in the shadow of suicide: What can the law do?
Geneva Richardson

Review essay

106–123 The roots of transitional accountability: interrogating the ‘justice cascade’
Padraig McAuliffe

Book reviews

124–126 Euthanasia and Law in Europe
Harry East

126–130 Agriculture and EU Environmental Law
Fiona Smith

130–134 Law and Anthropology: Current Legal Issues, volume 12
Fauzia Shariff

Special Issue: Mental capacity and value neutrality
Guest Editor: Jillian Craigie

For further information about this journal please go to the journal website at: journals.cambridge.org/ijc