The author regrets the inclusion of an error in the above article.

On page 22, there is an error in the following sentence: “In an interview Joy recounted a childhood incident when a worker at his family home was told that he was not really the child of his parents and that they had found him on a trip to a distant town”.

This should have read as “In an interview Joy recounted a childhood incident when a worker at his family home told him that Joy was not really the child of his parents and they had found him on a trip to a distant town”.
