INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Editorial policy

Financial History Review, published by Cambridge University Press on behalf of the European Association for Banking and Financial History, is a quarterly journal that deliberately seeks to embrace a broad approach to publishing research findings within this growing historical discipline. Articles address banking, financial and monetary history from different perspectives, including theoretical and empirical approaches, advanced empirical analysis, and the interrelationship between finance, history, politics and culture. The Review particularly encourages submission of young scholars.

Articles should normally be of 8,000 words including footnotes, tables and any other illustrative material (e.g. graphs) accepting an 8-page range and should not exceed 10,000 words. The journal is published in English and contributions should be submitted in that language. Authors whose native language is other than English are encouraged to send their manuscripts in a professional native translator for a preliminary review prior to submission.

Submissions

Manuscripts may be submitted through the ScholarOne Manuscripts site: https://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/fhr. Authors are required to submit an abstract (150-200 words) to which they can add affiliation, and all contacts of the corresponding author (name, affiliation, and email address) with a separate attachment, the full manuscript, figure, and table pages. A blinded copy of the manuscript should include the title page, the abstract (not more than 250 words), a key (or index) term, a short statement of how the paper fits the scope of the journal, a short statement of the main argument, and a list of keywords.

Proofs

Typographic or factual errors only may be changed at proof stage. The publisher reserves the right to charge authors for correction of non-typographical errors. Proofs will be submitted on a PDF via email. Authors are encouraged to add comments on the proofs via Track Changes or comments will be added by the publisher. In order to minimize the time and cost of proofs, authors should check the proofs carefully. Copy-editing is tedious and, as a consequence, the Editors reserve the right to return a contribution accepted for publication solely on the grounds that it does not follow these instructions.

Conversions

1. Spelling: follows the Longman Dictionary of Contemporary English. Sub-headings should be in small capitals.

2. Dates: years must be spelled out fully, 1948, but 1949 should be 1949. Numbers: spell out numbers up to ten, but use Arabic numerals thereafter and standard contractions, as with m for million. Spans of numbers should be separated by dashes, e.g. 1,000-2,000.

3. Sources: in footnotes, hence numbers: 1, 2, etc. Should be spelled this way in the text, and should appear in a separate section under an additional ‘Sources’ heading, with full references, i.e. (Accominotti et al., p. 87)

Proofs

Typographic or factual errors only may be changed at proof stage. The publisher reserves the right to charge authors for correction of non-typographical errors.
