The Pattern of Christian Truth

H. E. W. TURNER

Lightfoot Professor of Divinity in the University of Durham

A Study in the Relations between Orthodoxy and Heresy in the Early Church

Canon Turner's Bampton Lectures for 1954 should create considerable interest offering as they do a fresh analysis of the relations between Orthodoxy and Heresy in the Early Church, with a comparative estimate of the use made by both in drawing from the three primary sources of authority—Scripture, Tradition, and Reason. The author believes that the pattern of Christian truth that emerges is of direct relevance to the task of contemporary theologians. A work of great erudition and insight which searches the foundations of Christian theology. 42s.

The Jung Codex

Edited by Professor F. L. CROSS, D.D.

Contributors: Professor H. C. PUECH, Professor G. QUISPPEL and Professor W. C. VAN UNNIK
Studies of some unknown Gnostic writings of the first importance discovered at Nag Hammadi near the Nile which were acquired by the Jung Institute at Zurich. January. 15s.

I. Peter.

A Paschal Liturgy

Professor F. L. CROSS, D.D.

A new study of the Epistle from a liturgical and patristic angle. He traces a fascinating connection between this puzzling book and the celebration of Easter in the Early Church. 3s. 6d.

MOWBRAYS
