Medicine
Books and Journals from Cambridge University Press

The Cambridge Medicine programme focuses its book publishing in a defined set of core clinical areas with our great strength in the clinical brain sciences. Other specialties of significant focus include reproductive medicine/obstetrics and gynaecology, anaesthesia and critical care, emergency medicine and pathology.

Our journals programme covers a broad spectrum of medical disciplines including emergency and disaster medicine, epidemiology and infectious diseases, biomedical science, genetics, nutrition, mental health and psychiatry, and neuroscience.

We partner with many learned societies including The Society for Healthcare Epidemiology of America, and the Neuroscience Education Institute, and the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists.

Parasitology publishes definitive papers on all aspects of pure and applied parasitology including biochemistry, molecular biology, immunology, genetics, ecology and physiology and also the application of new techniques, long-term epidemiology studies, advances in the understanding of life-cycles, chemotherapy and major systematic revisions. Papers should normally be full length with an explanatory introduction and detailed discussion of the findings reported. Shorter reports of particularly important findings will also be considered.

Front Cover illustration: The functional mechanism of anti-merozoite antibodies. Antibodies to merzoite surface proteins can mediate several effector mechanisms, including complement fixation due to cytophilic antibodies that result in merozoite lysis of C3b opsonization, inhibition of merozoite invasion into RBC, phagocytosis of IgG-opsonized merozoites, production of reactive oxygen species (ROS) or Nitric oxide (NO) in response to opsonized parasites and antibody dependent cellular inhibition (ADCI) triggered by IgG-opsonized merozoites. From Healer et al., Vol. 145 (7), pp. 839–847.
