EDITORIAL
161 Futurology and mental health services: are we ready for the demographic transition? Moira Connolly

ORIGINAL PAPERS
165 Antipsychotics in people with dementia: frequency of use and rationale for prescribing in a UK mental health service Monica Cruel, Gilly Paton, Pratima Singh, Regina Jaboda, Adrian Telmoar
169 Perception of unmet needs and association with benzodiazepine misuse among patients on a methadone maintenance treatment programme Tunde Apantaku-Olagide, Kevin Ducray, Patricia Byrne, Bobby P. Smyth

SPECIAL ARTICLES
175 Healthy brain ageing: the new concept of motivational reserve Andreas Maercker, Simon Forstmeier
178 Motivational reserve: does it help our understanding of cognitive impairment? Commentary on Healthy brain ageing Bob Woods

EDUCATION & TRAINING
180 Adult attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder and child protection: review of evidence and child safeguarding guidelines James Jeffs, Sally Cubbin, Kiriakos Xeridakis

COLUMNS
194 Correspondence
198 Obituaries
Dr Denis Murphy
Professor Eadbhard O’Callaghan
Dr Mary Headley Welsh

200 Review
Overcoming Alcohol Misuse: A 28-Day Guide
ibc e-interview
Kamran Ahmed

Cover image: Moira Connolly (pp. 161-164) opens this issue by exploring how psychiatric services can respond successfully to the developing needs of our ageing population. Dr Connolly proposes a public health approach, and insists that we must become involved in effective planning now in order to feel and be prepared for the coming demographic transition.
Image © Guy Undrill 2012