

Micropolitics

Samuel Long, Editor
BARUCH COLLEGE — CUNY

The primary focus of MICROPOLITICS is on individual and group level political behavior, encompassing the disciplines of political science, psychology, sociology, and economics. Within this framework, emphasis will be placed on new theoretical syntheses and methodological techniques. MICROPOLITICS manifests no specific theoretical or methodological orientation, although microlevel empirical theory in political psychology, political sociology, and political economy is the goal of the journal.

One Man's Political History

H.S. Ferns

Foreword by Malcolm Muggeridge

The intellectual and political odyssey of a concerned and active twentieth-century man. Henry Stanley Ferns describes his youth and university days in Canada; his further education in England in the late 30s; his conversion to Marxism; his communist activities at Cambridge, especially with a 'colonial group' that included future prominent Third World figures; happenings in high places during his employment in the office of Prime Minister Mackenzie King; the case of Herbert Norman; his return to England and appointment to the University of Birmingham and much else. Full of detailed pen portraits of people and events, large and small, it is a lively and picaresque story. £21.20

'Campbell's analysis bristles with incisive asides and prescriptions that are likely to require consideration by reformers in each of the three countries. Few books in this subject area are based on empirical research, especially on this scale... a remarkable achievement.'

Governments under Stress

Political Leaders and Key Bureaucrats in Washington, London, and Ottawa

Colin Campbell

The successful manipulation of central policy agencies by political leaders has become a critical factor in contemporary government. Governments under Stress compares the relationships in the Thatcher and Callaghan leaderships in the U.K. with that of their counterparts in the U.S. and Canada. Drawing on intensive interviews with officials at the highest levels of government, Campbell identifies some striking differences, and some unexpected parallels in policy development systems and how they are handled by their leaders. £19.95

Notes for Contributors

1 All contributions should be sent to: The Editor, British Journal of Political Science, University of Essex, Wivenhoe Park, Colchester, Essex CO4 3SQ. They should not be sent to the Cambridge University Press.

2 Articles submitted to the Journal should in general be between 5,000 and 12,000 words (or equivalent in tables and figures) in length. An abstract not exceeding 120 words is required.

3 Notes and comments are welcome. A Note should contain a body of original information, a new method for doing something or a new idea (speculation, argument, proof, etc.) presented in a brief and unadorned form without inessential commentary. Comments containing criticisms of articles published in the Journal and additional thoughts on them will be considered for early publication, especially if they are short – say, under 1,000 words.

4 Most issues of the Journal contain a Review Article – either a detailed discussion of a single book or a review of the state of some area of the discipline. Review Articles submitted without prior consultation will be considered for publication, but in their own interest contributors would be well advised not to prepare a Review Article specially for the Journal without first getting in touch with the Editor.

5 Contributors should note the Journal's editorial policy, which is as stated inside the front cover.

6 Authors of articles and Review Articles receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if they are ordered at proof stage.

7 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not been previously published and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. In the interest of authors, copyright is normally assigned to the Cambridge University Press.

8 Contributions intended for publication should be submitted IN TRIPLICATE. Contributions must be typed and may be reproduced in any clearly legible form. The preferred size of paper is A4 ($8\frac{1}{4} \times 11\frac{1}{2}$ in), but quarto (8×10 in) or the US standard size ($8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ in) will also be accepted. Because of postage costs, manuscripts not accepted for publication are not normally returned to the author unless their return is specifically requested.

9 The entire material of any article, including footnotes, quotations, appendices, etc., should be double spaced, with left-hand margins of at least $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. The preferred treatment of footnotes is that they should be numbered consecutively in the text and typed all together at the end, beginning on a fresh page.

10 Anyone who is preparing a manuscript for submission to the Journal is urged to follow the Journal's style sheet, which covers a number of detailed points concerning footnotes, punctuation, spelling, etc. Copies of the style sheet can be obtained from the Editor. English spelling, not American, should be adopted. Footnote references should always contain, in the case of books, the name of the author as it appears on the title page, the full title including any subtitle, the place of publication, the name of the publisher and the date of publication, and, in the case of articles, the name of the author, the full title, the name of the journal, the volume number, the year and the page reference (number of first and last page).

11 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by air mail where appropriate, within ten days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent directly to the Editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.
